Brooklyn and Queens Hit by Apartment Walkout-Mayor Asks Settlement

By DAMON STETSON

The strike of building service employees, centered primarily in Manhattan on the first day, spread to many apartment bouses in Brooklyn and Quecus yesterday with no signs of an early settlement.

John J. Sweeney, president of Local 32B of the Building Service Employees International Union, estimated that 2,500 of the 4,000 buildings where its members work had been struck and said the walkout would be expanded to Staten Island today. Apartment houses in the Bronx, where employees are represented by another local, are not affected by the dispute. Tenants in struck buildings hava been having problems with mail deliveries, garbage disposal and, in some cases, elevator aervice. But many have formed committees to provide for internal security, to operate alevators, to arrange for garbage pickups and to dis-

Africa Tour Resembles Stampede

By MICHAEL T. KAUFMAN

NAIROBI, Kenya, May 4-The first week of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's African visit was paced like a stampede, and one veteran of many Kissioger trips said he thought it was more of an endurance test than a diplomatic mission.

Still, Mr. Kissinger seemed to thrive on the movement. In addition to lengthy talks with six heads of state. largely on the Rhodesia question. numerous briefings with aides and continuous contacts with Washington, Mr. Kissinger was also squired by his various hosts through enough basic sightseeing and ethnic entertainment to fill the fan-tasies of hardened armchair travelers.

He saw Kilimanjaro, rode on the Zambezi River, was on the Zambezi River, was sprayed by Victoria Falls, cruised on a river that is the Zaire River in Zaire where he was visiting, but is still the Congo River on the other bank, which is in the Republic of Congo, and watched command performances of Kenyan dancers, Zairian dancers and Liberian dencers dancers.

But Mr. Kissinger appeared in he most moved by a visit arranged for him by the Senegalese Government to the island of Gorée, a 40-minute boat trip from Dakar.

The local people gathered The local people gathered at the dock and small children joined their grand-mothers in dances and songs of happy welcome. All of this obscured the sad history of the place, which served as a slave port for hundreds of years, for the Portuguese, the Dutch and others. Mr. Nissinger spent most of his Kissinger spent most of his time inside the old house of slaves where human cargoes were warehoused for ship-

As he left, and the drums and joyous songs acrom-panied him back to the boat, he remarked, "It makes you eshamed to be a human

One aspect of the trip that must have been difficult for African hosts to understand was the conduct of the American reporters accompanying Mr. Kissinger.

Most of the reporters are permanently assigned to the State Department and many have developed rituals of familiarity and brashness toward the Secretary to protect themselves from being overly influenced by his personality and by their prox-imity to him. Mr. Kissinger understands this and often answers the inside jokes and gibes with more of the same.

But in Africa, where most of the press is government-controlled, much of this in-terplay must have been seen as rudeness on the part of the reporters. In Zaire, for example, at a joint news con-ference held by Mr. Kissin-ger and Zaire's Foreign Min-ister, Nguza Karl-i-Bond, the Zairian reporters stood politely to ask their written-out questions. The American re-porters slouched. Just before the conference began. Mr. Kissinger was talking to Mr. Nguza when one of the American reporters shouted out, "Mr. Secretary!"

"Just a minute," Mr. Kis-singer answered, showing minor irritation.

"Oh. that's all right." the reporter answered, "I just wanted to say howdy."

On the flight to Africa, the Kissinger plane flew directly from London. On the return flight to Paris on Thursday the plane is to make a refueling stop in Crete. One reason for this is that Nairobi is a high-altitude airport and requires more fuel for liftoff, but another reason is the weight of the gifts that party memof the gifts that party members, from Assistant Secretaries of State to translators to Secret Service men. bought along the way. Carvings, skins, ivory statues.
uribal masks and ersatz tribal masks filled the hold and overflowed into the cahin.

Wr. Kissinger started his tour of the Masai Mara Game Park and in short order was able to distinguish between categories of horned animals like topi, Grant's gazelle, Thomson's gazelle, wildebeest and impala.

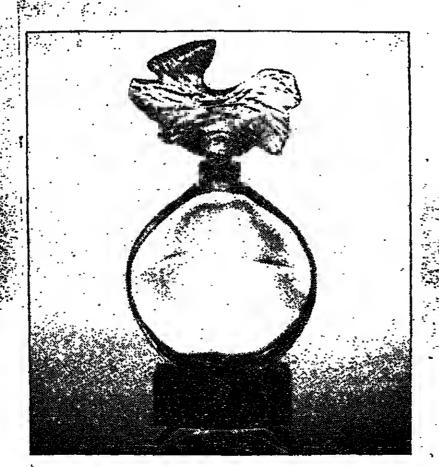

Much more difficult for the tourists lucky enough to find hotel rooms in Nairobi is the problem of distinguishing between the countries at the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development here. Cafeteria cooversations by people wearing name tags is all about "LD.C.'s." "D.C.'s." the Group of 77 and "the 10."

The L.D.C.'s are the less-developed countries and the D.C.'s are the developed countries. Mr. Kissinger to-day held a luncheon for a mixed I.D.C. and D.C. group.

LD.C.'s and a dinner for a mixed L.D.C. and D.C. group. Tomorrow he will be host to the D.C.'s. The Group of 77. which had 75 when it started and has 110 members now. is made up of the L.D.C.'s. and the "10" are the richest of the D.C.'s.

JUDAISM VS. ZIONISM

The Jewish nation is basically different from all the other nations (the אומות העולם) as it does not depend for its existence on geographical boundaries, on secular sovereignty or on an army or air force. The Jewish people is ordained to live in peace with the nations of the world and it therefore has no part in the political and military quarrels of the Zionist state with its neighbors. Zionism is a complete falsification of Judaism and the Zionist state cannot represent the Jewish people.

The Jewish nation exists only because of the eternal bond between E'd and the Jewish people, confirmed at Mount Sinai for all future generations. The laws of the Torah are not sobject to any party or parliamentary vote but the mixin (commandments) of the written and oral Torah laws are obligatory for every Jew and for the entire Jewish community.

It is important for every Jew and non-Jew to know this fundamental difference between Zionism and Judaism, between the Zionist state and the true Jewish nation. Since its inception. Zionism has been condemned by the foremost Torah authorities as a gross aberration, as misleading and as a danger to Judaism and the Jewish people. Rabbi Amram Blau זצ"ל, the great and well-known Jewish leader and spokesman in Jerusalem, proclaimed shortly before his death that the recognition and acceptance by the United Nations of the Zionist state as representing the lewish people was a grave injustice and mistake and that this action should be rectified.

In due course the Zionist mirage will disappear, as did so many false Messianic movements before, but the Jewish people will live — patiently awaiting the arrival of the true Moshiach - an enduring testimeny to Divine rule, upholding the banner of high moral and ethical standards, a symbol of peace and brotherhood.

Mexico, in Shift, Plans to Join Oil-Exporting Nations' Cartel

MEXICO CITY, May 4 (AP)—
Mexico, in a sudden change in its oil policy, announced today that it plans to join the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries at the first opportunity.

The announcement was made by Francisco Javier Alejo, the Secretary of Natural Resources, who said at a news conference that Mexico's proven crude reserves had reached seven billion barrels, a billion more than in March.

He said Mexico's estimated crude reserves may total 30 billion to 60 billion barrels—

Government officials did not explain the reason for the sudden change in policy. Mr. Alejor den chan

SATELLITE LOFTED FOR EARTH STUDY

Craft. Expected to Endure! 8 Million Years, to Check Planet's Slight Shifts

By WALTER SULLIVAN A sparkling "golf ball" with a heart of solid brass was launched into orbit yesterday to serve as a laser-reflecting beacon to record subtle move ments of the earth.

It is not expected to fall back to earth for at least eight mil-lion years and, with this in mind, it carries a pictorial mes-sage for those who might inter-cept it at some distant future date. Since one objective of the

since one objective of the mission is to record changes in geography because of the drift of the continents, the message shows three maps of the world. The top one displays the continents assembled as they are thought to have been 225 million years ago lion years ago.

Below it is a map of the world as it exists today with a diagrammatic representation of the satellite being launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base in California.

The lowest map shows the assumed geography 8.4 million years hence. In this map Cali-fornia west of the San Andreas Fault has split off from the mainland, Australia has been welded onto the East Indies and East Africa has separated from the African continent.

In this "message," designed by Dr. Carl Sagan of Cornell University, the epoch represented by each map is shown in a binary numbering system with the unit of time (one year) indicated by a diagram of the earth's movement around the sun. It is assumed that those viewing the maos millions of years hence would deduce from them when and where the ve-hicle was launched.

Relatively Heavy

The satellite, known as Lagoes for Laser Geodynamic Satellite), is very heavy, weigh-ing 903 nounds, although its only two feet in dlameter. More than a third of its weight is in its solid brass core. This is designed to minimize external effects on its orbit such as by the pressure of sunlight or orag by traces of atmosphere at the orbital height of 3,639 miles.

It is because of this height and its weight that the satellite should remain in orbit millions of years. More important, its orbital positions should be predictable to within 4 inches or less, efter observation for a suitable time.

At first, a radio beacon onlits final booster tracked the satellite. Later, the sky cameras of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory are to photograph it against star backgrounds for more precise data.
The satellite sphere is covered with 426 laser reflectors. giving it the dimpled appearlaser reflectors left by astronauts at landing sites on the moon, these are prisms designed to reflect a beam of light precisely back along its incom-

Such a beam can be used for extremely accurate distance measurements. In the first four years these should reach an accuracy of 4 inches. In the 1980's, when it is hoped that as many as 14 laser stations will be operating, the errors should narrow to 2 inches along measurement lines thou sands of miles long.

In this way it is expected that movements of land masses as little as a half inch a year can be recorded within a period of four years. This, for example, is less than the inferred rate at which Europe and North America are moving apart.

Daily Earth Movements

Because of the tidal affects caused by lunar and solar grav-ity, parts of the earth's sur-face, including Manhattan Island, move up and down sever-el inches twice daily. Lageos will be used to record such tidal deformations as well as those that may anticipate earthquakes.

The satellite also should make it possible to record with great accuracy slight wobbles in the earth's spin axis—a phenomenon now monitored by observatories of the International Polar Mo-tion Service. These globe-en-circling stations are all at 39 degrees 8 minutes north lati-

Also evident should be slight changes in the rotation rate of the earth that may be caused by events within or outside the earth. These are now monitored by the Bureau International de l'Heure through observatories around the world. Both the wobble and spin changes may be related to earthquake activity.

Other satellites, beginning in 1964, have carried reflectors, but they flew lower orbits and were better suited to study mass distribution within the earth. This is the first one de-signed exclusively for bigh pre-cision geographic measure-

In describing the message, two copies of which are on board, the space agency said that "whoever is inhabiting the earth." when the satellite returns millions of years hence,
"may appreciate a little greeting card from the remote past."
While it has no moving parts or electronics to wear out, its reflectors will probably be eroded in the space environ-ment, limiting their lifetime to TWA flies more people across the Atlantic than any other airline. More people than British Airways. More people than Air France.

Even more than Pan Am. And one big reason is where we fly. To the popular cities of Europe and the Middle East.

Every year, TWA carries over a million transatlantic passengers.

But it's not only where we fly that makes us No. 1. It's also how we treat you along the way.

It is also clear that whatever it may have been before 1968, by the time of the 1974 revolution the Portuguese party was a great deal stronger than the estimate of 1,000 members given in a 1973 United States State Department publication. A former member believes it had from 5,000 to 10,000 full members, but he added that there were many more sympathizers who distributed clandestine publications and performed party chores without

A "screening" process is now weeding out unreliable newcomers, a contrast with the French party, which is recruiting energetically despite the risk of diluting discipline.

In the period immediately after the 1974 revolution, the Portuguese Communists had an aura of romantic heroism as the only longstanding organized and active opponents of the Salazar dictatorship. Beame's Culture Chief

Henri Claude Shostal

By MARY BREASTED When Henri Claude Shostal learned yesterday that Mayor Beame had selected him to be the city's new Commissioner of Cultural Affairs, he said, "It came as a real surprise to me." Mr. Shos-tal, who has been Mayor's Office of Lower Manhattan Development for the last two years, had no more than an inking that be was under consideration for the cultural post. His appointment came as a surprise, too, to the world at large, for Mr. Shostal was not widely known in the fields of culture, business or politics — from which the Mayor had been expected to make his choice. His came was not among those being circulated in the rumor mills that always flourish when attractive government posts are

The Department of Cultural Affairs, the agency that Mr. Hostal will take over, was created as an autonomous agency late February. It had previously been an arm of the superagency Parks, Rec-reation and Cultural Affairs.

Manned by a staff of half a dozen people, the depart-ment helps to coordinate all kinds of cultural events in the parks and open spaces of the city. It also dispenses money to museums and a wide range of performing-arts groups. The garnts to these groups are made at the discretion of the Cultural Affairs Commissioner, with the approval of the Board of Estimate and, in some cases, the Emergency Financial Control Board,

The 36-year-old appointee was not unfamiliar to the Beame administration — pecause of his Lower Manhattan job. He was hired for that post by First Deputy Mayor John E. Zuccotti, who at the time, July 1974, was chairman of the City Planming Commission, and Mr. Shostal described himself yesterday as being "close to" Mr. Zuccotti.

Before his work in city government, Mr. Shostal spent seven years in the slate administration of for-mer Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, first on the Governor's staff and later as geoeral manager of the State Park and Recreation Commission for New York City.

Martin Segal, who, as chairman of the Cultural Affairs Commission, had con-ducted a search for a new Cultural Affairs Commissioner, described Mr. Shostal yesterday as "a quiet man" who was well liked by "the peo-Manhattan.

A week ago Mr. Segal arranged for Mr. Snostal to meet with the Mayor, and yesterday morning Mr. Segal made a pitch for him before the Cultural Affairs Commission, which then voted unanimously, Mr. Segal said, to recommend Mr. Shostal for the appointment.

"I told the Mayor, and he said 'fine.' "It took about two minutes, Mr. Segal said, going on to explain that the Mayor had previously told the Cultural Commission that be did not want his new Cultural Affairs Commissioner to be a political choice.

The speed of the Mayor's decision seemed to astonish Mr. Soostal, who had not yet bad time to inform his staff of his appointment wheo news of it came out at midday resterday.

Looking like the proverbial "man in the gray flannel suit" — he sat composedly through an interview yesterday, exuding an air of re-strained delight.

The only signs of possible excitement in his manner were the coostant lighting of cigarettes and an occasional fidgeting with a new metal watchozno.

Not a man given to hyper-bolic statements. Mr. Shostal gave a very calm and aobreviated account of his life.

Born in Paris on Jan. 26. 1940, he was taken as an infant on a classic wartime flight through the country-side by his mother, who managed to escape the Nazis and catch up with his father, an Austrian Jew, in Mar-seilles. The family came to the United States in 1941. settling at first in Queens, theo in Peekskill, N.Y.

Their fortunes flourished here, and Mr. Shostal went to Harvard, graduatiog in 1961 with a B.A. in history. In 1967 be received a M.A. degree to public administra-tion from New York Univer-

On reflection, he thought of another passion, "Government and bow it works." "I still cry when I read the words on the Jefferson Memorial." he said without em-barrassment. "I just feel so fortuoate to be where I am, and I don't think it could have happened anywhere

When asked whether he had any special cultural interests, Mr. Shostal, who was active in trying to preserve Lower Manhattan landmarks, said he liked opera but did not wish to favor one cultural field over another. He saw his role as an "administrative one," and said he did not think he had been selected as 'a cultural expert."

For those many thousands whose Social Security checks go directly to a savings bank, a checking account is not just a convenience, it's a need. Are you listening, Albany?

Right now the State Legislature is considering the Cincotta-Conklin Bill. If passed into Law, it will enable New York savings banks to offer checking accounts to their depositors. This represents a convenience for everybody. But for those on fixed incomes and Social Security, whose money is sent directly into their savings accounts, it's a lot more than that. It's a must. Without checks - paying bills is a problem.

What's more, it is expected that eventually all Social Security checks will have to be sent directly to the banks. Imagine what that

The Cincotta-Conklin Bill takes care of the problem. It is a will mean. straightforward bill that does the job and should be passed.

We urge you, as a New Yorker, to fill in the ballot and 1) mail it yourself, 2) bring it to any branch of the Dry Dock and we'll mail it, or 3) take it to any New York savings bank and they'll mail it.

Please do it now.

the President in terms of "electability"; about 3g percent of the Indiana voters thought Mr. Reagan had a "very good" chanceof election, as against 55 percent who had that view of Mr. Ford's prospects in November if nominated.

But the former California Governor was helped even more by his stand on the issues. Apparently his more aggressive posture, especially in television commercials, has turned the contest into what the Reagan forces had always hoped forar referendum on policy questions, not a contest of personalities.

A Cleveland Ward Turns to Carter, But Commitment Seems Lukewarm

WILLIAM K. STEVENS

CLEVELAND-Joe Mazzeo is a tall stringbean of a plumber who lives with his wife and children upstairs over St. Rocco's Parish Ced-it Union in the middle of Cleveland'a West-side Fifth Ward, in the house where he was born 48 years ago. He is also Ward Five's Democrat-ic leader a man who is lieic leader, a man who is lis-tened to in matters political.

The other night, though, the immediate objects of Mr. Mazzeo's attention were the IO pins at the end of a bowling alley at Brookgate Lanes in one of the city's southwest-ero suburbs. He rolled his first practice balt: Crash. A strike. "Nothin' to it," he grinned, puffing on a cigar, spreading his arms for emphasis, palms upward.

Almost as easily as that, Ward Five in the last six weeks appears to have become Jimmy Carter country up to a point. "I think he's a winner," Mr. Mazzeo said between bowling turns the

Mr. Mazzeo said he be-lieved that Ward Five was the former Georgia Governor's for the taking in the Ohio Democratic Presidential primary on June 8. Since the ward is traditionalty and faithfully Democratic, that makes Mr. Carter its new favorite in Presidential politics. On the ward's past form, Mr. Carter would be a sure winner here in November as

Lukewarm Commitments Talks with indiivdual voters and Cleveland politicswatchers suggest that Mr. Mazzeo's assessment is right. If it is, that represents a startling shift in sentiment since mid-March-from almost total fragmentation of opinion to something approaching consensus—in this urban, industrial enclave where 22,000 people live, typin modest frame houses on neatly trimmed lots in neighborhoods where there seems to be a church on one corner and a bar on

But if Mr. Carter has surged into the favorice's role in the ward, it does not nec-essarily mean he has stirred men's souls or turned them into fervent believers. His support may have broadened dramatically, but it sometimes seems to lack depth and commitment; to be lukewarm, as if there were no other really good choice.

"I'm not too crazy about any of 'em.' Tony Vannello said of the candidates the other night hetween frames at the howling alley, "Ahout a year ago my man was Wallace, and I changed to Carter. I'm not really sure why."

Mr. Vzonello, a 33-year-old sells and services carpets for aliving, was one of a small group who gather at Brookgate Lanes once a week to bowl, drink, cuss and talk un-til well after midnight.

Mr.Carter's statement about racial pelicy was made in answer to a black man in his audience who asked what he would do, if elected President, to achieve "total integration" and, specifically, if be would support busing of schoolchildren to reach that goal.

In an answer that consumed almost seven minutes and was given in a grave and earnest tone, Mr. Carter never dld mention busing. However, throughout his campaign he has expressed opposition to "forced" busing of schoolchildren, while asserting that in Georgia other measures to achieve equality of education have been successful

"It's important to beat Ford," Mr. Vannello said. We have to have a Democrat in to pick things up. I voted for Nixon and it was a big mistake. Everything went up. Prices, everything.

"I guess you have to go with the one who can win," he said of his decision to favor Mr. Carter. The only way a candidate can prove how good a President he Such, perhaps, has been one effect of Mr. Carter's momentum on some rank-momentum is mainly what accounts for the Georgian's surge here. Apart from that, voters' explanations as to why they favor Mr. Carter often come up vague.

"I just like the way he talks," said Kenny Jablonski, another of the bowlers who said he favored Mr. Carter. 'It's the smile, maybe.'

Eveo Mr. Mazzeo, who has been an often-lonely Carter supporter since the first soundings of sentiment were made here nearly 12 weeks ago, has difficulty explaining it. "I just took to him," he says. "It might be his sincerity—how he's talking to the people."

Ward Five is a richly various urban territory stretching across the city's near West Side from the edge of Cieveland's downtown core to the industrial flats, where the rising and falling smoke-hillows of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company symbolize the industrial economy on which the jobs of most of the ward's breadwinners de-

"Oh, for the life of a food writer," frieods and acquaintances say loogingly, imagining, as they do, days of caviar and Scotch salmon and one heaveoly meal after aoother. For the most part, of course, the meals are less than heavenly, averaging about 10 that are mediocreto-terrible for every one that is even near-great. But fortunately, there are just enough highspots to make it

One such was a stunningly beautiful Chinese banquet held recently at Shun Lee Pa-lace, 155 East 55th Street. Ten eaters brandishing chopsticks gathered around a big lacquer table as guests of Grace Chu, doyenne of the city's Chinese cooking school teachers, for a somewhat be-lated celebration of this, the Year of the Dragon, 4776 on the Chinese calendar.

As planned and prepared by Shun Lee's owner-chief, T. T. Wang, the meal was worth waiting for, as specta-cularly satisfying to the pa-

Famed Peking duck, the crisp skin, moistly tender meat, biting scallion and mellow sauce enrobed in a chiffon crepe followed the soup and after that came a steamed fish mousse with a mosaic glaze of vegetable forms.

Shavings of rare and juicy beef fired again with chili peppers and graced with sautéed watercress brought us almost to the end. Almost but oot quite, for then came the sweetly gentle ground walnut and rice soup, a soothing palliative for our nearly exhausted palates, and after that, delicate fishshaped cookies filled with sweet bean paste and a plateful of gorgeous fresh . pineapple. watermelon, cantaloupe and grapes.

mound of shrimp in the sesame seeds until well-coated on all sides. As you roll, gently shape into strawberry-like ovals. Stick 1 sliver of green pepper "stem" into one eod of each "berry." Chill for

1 hour to firm.
6. Using a wok, a deep-fryer or a saucepan, heat oil to 400 degrees for 5 mmutes. Add strawberries and let heat drop to 300 degrees. Fry for 5 minutes. Raise oil temperature to 400 degrees and fry 3 minutes more, turning as you fry so all sides are crisp and strawberries float. Remove, drain, and serve immediately.

Yield: About 12 berries. Note: Anyone reluctant to eat even so small a quantity of red food coloring can skip the coloring stage of this recipe, in which case the final result will be something like golden strawberries or walnuts—take your pick.

Lacquer-red sesame seeds make a crisp, bright coating on deepfried strawberry shrimp.

According to Dr. Richard Prindle of the Pan American Health Organization, the center is being considered as an example of alternative bealth care for youth in Latin Americao countries, especially in Mexico City. "The Door offers services young people need in a fashion young people will eccept," Dr. Prindle said. The idea for The Door originated five years ago when 12 professionals - psychietrists and other doctors, lewyers and educators—found that none of them were ac-complishing what they wanted to in their various institutions. "We felt as though we were giving our petients the runaround," said Dr. Turan-ski. "There was no link-up of services, and these kids had problems that couldn't be solved by a doctor alooe."

After a year of working out details and a year of operat-ing out of borrowed facilities at Horizon House, a drug rehabilitation center, The Door began to receive funds, first from the Federal Government and then from the city and the state.

"Our idea was to have the facilities for all a young person's needs—creative, physical, educational and psychiatric—uoder one roof," said Dr. Turanski.

Buzz of Activity

The Door center is open Monday through Friday from 2 to 11 P.M. On any weekday night the place buzzes with activity, and in the 55,000 square feet of space anything from a discussion group to a volleyball game might be going on. A giant kiosk bear-ing notices of a weaving class, a weight-loss meeting and child-care training, among other things, dominates the entrance area. The furniture in the workrooms was built by wood-working students, and people taking jewelry classes sell duplicates of what they make, with the profits going to The Door. One young man invented eo electronic locking device for fire bydrants thet the center's lawyers belped him to pateot.

All Fake

مكذا من الاصل

By ANGELA TAYLOR The woman who wears her "snow leopard" coat this winter bed probably this winter bed probably better get a sign explaining it's a real fake. Manmade furs bave gotten to be such duplicates of the real thing that the wearer may find herself defending the coat against the wrath of cooservationists. Russel Taylor, a coat house that specializes in unreal furs, has the bless-ing of the World Wild-life Organization, which would prefer that the fur-minded woman satis-fy her craving with pelts that come out of fabric mills rather than the jungle.

The idea is sound, of course. Still, one ques-tions the logic of a parade of coats that look so much like leopard, jag-uar or cheetah, that they are a constant reminder of the handsomeness of these threatened animals. However, any gesture to save the endangered spe-cies is to be epplauded.

Mr. Taylor, one of the founders of the company, pointed out at the showing of the new collection that prices of real furs were on the rise this year, while bis fakes were generally lower in price than they were last season. A fake ranch mink coat priced in the neighbor-hood of $200 will keep the wearer almost as warm as the $6,000 real thing.

Both in the looks of the manmade pelt and in the styling, fakes are edging closer to furs. Patterned pelts, such as the ones that resemble Russian fitch or stone marten, are uncanny. Edging a fake seal coat with fake sable makes it look even more trompe l'oeil.

The current collection mirrors virtually every animal oo the ark: badg-er, flat or curly lamb, beaver, reccoon and all the popular mink mutations, and spotted cats. There are even "fur-lined"

More and more Americans are going abroad each summer to take cooking courses, some of BANANAS them intensive, some of them casual. .18

For American Tourists, Cooking Schools in Europe

A cook's tour is hardly what it used to be. Once relegated to the tourist itineraries arranged by the travel agents Thomas Cook & Son, the phrase now has more pertinence when applied to the ever-increasing number of Americans who go abroad each summer to take cooking lessons in one glamorous locale or another.

Glowing with the success of last year's efforts, a number of leading cooking school teachers are packing whisks and crepe pans and carting them off to Venice, Bologna, Florence, London, Oxford, Rouen and Paris In addition, a number of European-based schools are modifying their more lengthy and serious winter schedules to accommodate summer students who want shorter, intensified courses or one-day once-over-lightlies. While most of the curriculums stress classic French cooking, there are several devoted to Italian specialties, and to the traditional cooking of England Classes vary in length from a single afternoon of observation to a full si weeks of rolled-up sleeves participation leading to a framable certificate

In most, tours to restaurants and markets are included in the package and between meals, students have plenty of time for sightseeing, shopping and restaurant-hopping. Full information on each school can be obtained by writing to the addresses below. Because of widely fluctuating currency rate changes, the costs, where noted, should be considered only as approximations.

France:

Cordon Bien. Special courses in classic. English each morning, Monday through reach home-cooking are being orgalized for July and September, with the lanagement stating that details have not yet been set. The subjects of the ourses will depend on what applicants. English each morning, Monday through Saburday, and are designed to leave the afternoons free for sightseeing. The cost is $100 a week and the ourses will depend on what applicants. French home-cooking are being organized for July and September, with the management stating that details have not yet been set. The subjects of the courses will depend on what applicants

The school did not provide a fee schedule for the as-yet undetermined summer courses, but its normal charges may provide some indication as to what to expect. Classes composed of demon-stration and participation cost about $500 to $600 for six-week sessions, de-pending upon the subject. The instruction is in French.

Further information may be obtained by writing to Le Cordon Bleu Cooking & Pastry School, 24, rue du Champ de Mars. Paris, 75007, and the school has a New York representative, Richard Grausman, of 155 West 68th Street. Lenotre. Considered to be the foremost caterer-in the Paris area, Lenôtre specializes in the preparation and presentation of sumptnons desserts, candies and ices. The school, about an hour-from Paris by train and bus or car on the way to Chartres, also offers instruc-tion in the catering of lunches, cold buf-for in the catering of functions, cold dur-fets and large parties.

Classes, which are conducted in Freoch only, are generally Monday through Friday. The school's annual closing this summer will be from July 16 to Aug. 23. A one-week course costs eoout $440, and included in the price are the students' breakfasts, lunches and ingredients to be used in each class. For further information, write L'Ecole Lenôtre, Hameau des Gatines, M.G. Po-

Princess Ere 2001. This Paris cooking school, run by Marie-Blanche de Broglie is offering summer cooking lessons near Rouen in Normandy, based on local cui-

nee, Directeur de l'Ecole, 78370 Plaisir,

Demonstration lessons are given in

Sept. 1 to 12. Further information may be obtained by writing to Marie Blanche de Broglie 18, Avenue de la Motte Picquet, Pari Simone Beck's L'Ecole des Trois Gon mandes. This school, originally a join effort with Julia Child, should be con sidered only by those who are making their vacation plans extremely well a advance. Mrs. Beck writes that she a completely booked up for about the years for a classic French course the she describes as very limited during the summer.

The classes are bilingual, but most in English.

So Maple Syrup Prices Are on the Way Up-Crop Is Down,

By HAROLD FABER Special to The Lew Title Times
ALBANY—Consumers will have to pay more for the maple syrup on their pancakes later this year as a result of a poor 1976 crop and short supply of good quality syrup, according to reports from both producers and roadside stand operators. In both New York State

country, an unseasonably

production about a month earlier than usual. Early estimates were that the crop this year will be about two-thirds or three-quarters of last year's production of 719,000 gallons in the two states. Prices io upstate New York for top quality syrup are SI3.50 to $14 a gallon. Indications are that the price may rise as much as $2 a gallon by summertime. and Vermont, the major pro-"Producers are going to suffer more than consumducers of maple syrup in the ers," according to Lloyd Sipple, who produces syrup and edits the National Maple Syrup Digest on his farm on the baoks of the Susquehanna River in Bainbridge,

N. Y.

He explained that, like other producers, he set the price early in February, when the sap began to run, at about $13.50 a gallon for table quality syrup. That was the same price as last year.

"Until mid-March it looked like we were going to have a humper crop," he said. "But then it stayed warm for a couple of days too long and the trees began to bud. Ooce the buds start, that's the end of a good syrup run."

Even though his production stopped early, Mr. Sipple has oot raised his price.
"Sure, I can raise the price a little now for the balance of the season, but I've already sold half my crop at the lower price," he said.

At the Taconic Orchard farm stand on Route 82 in West Taghanic in Columbia County, Arnold Feller Jr. reported that his price was still $13.95 for a gallon.

حكدًا من الأجلُّ

"But I expect the price will be up at least $2 a gallon by the time summer comes eround," he added. Both in New York and Vermoot, producers also reported that the quality of much of the maple syrup was lower than usual and darker in color because of the unseasonably early spring weather.

substantially, people are going to have to pay higher prices for the top-graded table syrups, which are clear amber in color, or get used to using the darker, lower-grade syrups," said Raymond Foulds of the University of Vermont at Burlington.

Mr. Feller said he believes the darker syrup tastes as good as the amber syrup, and added that the price for the dark syrup would probably be $2 a gallon cheaper.

CONSUMER NOTES

Choice of a Bank Can Mean Savings

By DIANE HENRY

cent.

WASHINGTON, May 4-Shrewd consumers in the New York area can save substantial sums of money by carefully choosing their banks, according to data recently compiled by the Senate Banking Committee.

In a report titled "Consumers Guide to Banking," the committee examined such services as savings account interest rates, auto and home loan rates and checking account charges for 20 banks in the New York area and 21 banks in the District of Columbia.

The committee's report, based on statistics volunteered by the banks, showed teered by the banks, showed for example that the "most common" rate of interest on a 25-year home mortgage was 8.5 per cent at Irving Trust or the Nanuet National Bank, with a "typical" downpayment of 20 per cent.

The New York bank with the highest rate of interest was Chase Manhattan, which was Chase Manhattan, which charges an average of 9.25 percent for homes purchased in New Jersey, with a typical downpayment of 40 percent. For homes in New York, Chase Manhattan's average to the report.

Secood Mortgages Noted

The report also lists which of the 20 New York area banks allow home buyers to take out a second mortgage and whether the mortgage is assumable at the same rate factor that often makes it easier to sell a home.

While savings and loan associations, the main financers of home mortgages in this country, are not included in the banking committee's analysis, the report does list the variety of charges for other more commonly used panking services.

Citibank charges its checking-account customers $1.50 if a check deposited in the customer's account is returned for insufficient funds. Midlantic National Bank, Nanuet National Bank, the National Community Bank of New Jersey, United Jersey Bank and Scersdale National Bank and Trust don't charge their customers a penny if a deposited check bounces. A stop-payment order for a checking account at Atlantic Bank costs S4, while the same service costs 50 cents at Barclays Bank.

The report found that nine of the New York banks studied notified their customers before returning one of their checks, and 11 did not.

Check Fees Vary A certified check costs

$2.50 at Citibank but ooly 25 cents at Irving Trust. The cashier-check fee is 50 cents at American Bank & Trust and $1.50 at Chase Manhat-The maximum interest rate commercial banks may pay on a passbook savings account is 5 per cent, and while 18 of the New York banks do pay the maximum, Citi-bank and Midlantic National Bank do not. But as important as the savings interest rate is the method each bank uses to calculate interest. The report details each bank's frequency for compounding interest, whether quarterly or weekly, and it explains each bank's method for computing the balance of an account—the most unfavorable being the low-balance method and the most favorable being day-of-

deposit-day-of-withdrawal.
Twelve of the banks will not allow their customers to withdraw savings - account money except at the branch the account was

Spread in Loan Rates

The interest rate for a newcar auto loan ranges from 10.88 percent in the New York area to 13.88 percent, and the interest rate on a home-improvement loao varies from 9.05 to 13.38 per-

Senator William Proxmire, the chairman of the Banking Committee and a Wisconsin Democrat, said that the report had been put together to encourage the Federal Re-serve, which collects such information, to make it public and also to encourage consumer organizations to publish local banking guides.

while the Banking Committee report is by no means definitive—it leaves out some of the largest New York banks, such as Bankers Trust Company—it may be a useful guide for consumers when they select a bank. The report is available through the Superintendent of Docune Superintendent of Documents, United States Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402 at a price of 70 cents, although there is a printing office minimum order charge of $1.

Thus one copy would cost $1, two would cost $1.40.

Hearing-Aid Users Get Phone Advice

Virginia Knauer, the Special Assistant to the President for Consumer Affairs, announced that the New York Telephone Company and New Jersey Bell Telephone Company, along with 10 other telephone compa-nies around the country, had agreed to include in their written advertising disclosure statements regarding the compatibility of certain types of telephones with hearing aids.

nearing aids.

The designs of Trimline and a few other nonstandard phones prohibit any modifications that make them usaole for persons with hearing aids. The problem is that the phones no longer emit the "magnetic leakage" around which many hearing aids have been designed.

When the Airlines Must Pay Riders

Passengers who are bumped from an airline flight that is overbooked are entitled to a penalty fee of up to $200 over and above the price of their ticket, if the airline cannot arrange another flight that will arrive with-in two hours of the original trip, according to Federal regulations.

regulations.

This bonus, not widely advertised, is one of many travelers rights listed on information sheets avallable from Aviation Consumer Action Project, Washington, D. C. 20036. There are a few exceptions to the $200 rule, such as passengers having to such as passengers having to check io at the departure gate at least 10 minutes before the scheduled departure.
"Some people confuse being overbooked with being delayed," said one Aviation

Project worker, but even those who are delayed be-cause of bad weather or mechanical breakdowns are en-titled by Federal regulation to a variety of amenities. Generally when a flight is expected to be delayed for four hours or more, free long-dis-tance phone calls, meals and —if it is after 10 P.M.—a botel room must be provided by the airline.

Ford to Sign New Traffic Law

President Ford announced today that he would sign the Federal - Aid Highway Act tomorrow. Among other things, it will end the Federal Government's authority to force states to have safety laws, such as driver educa-tion and motor-vehicle in-

To motorcycle buffs, it could also mean the end of helmet-use laws. So far Kansas and South Dakota have repealed their motorcycle helmet laws, and now, with the signing of the bill, the repeals will become effective.

Issues

The union is seeking a wage increase of $50 a week, in a new one-year contract to supplant the three-year agreement that ended April 20. It is also seeking a better cost-of-living provision, a 35-hour week instead of the present 40 hours, and improvements in pensions, welfare coverage, sick leave and vacations.

The building owners are offering no wage increase and are calling for a reduction in present fringe benefits to belp them meet increased real-estate taxes, higher fuel and material costs and continued rent control. They want no payment for the first day of illness; only straight time pay for work on holidays; elimination of the present cost-of-living clause; an employer right to compel retirement of workers at 65 years of age; the elimination of Columbus Day, Election Day and Lincoln's birthday as holidays, and contributions by employees of $3 a week to the welfare fund and $1 a week to the pension fund. The funds are now supported entirely by the employers.

Sie. Michelle and the Sonoma each sell for about $5. And all are from producers with considerable reputations to preserve.

In this case, both the Sonoma and the Ste. Michelle were standing on the shelf when purchased. How long they had been standing is not known. If a cork is rotten or ill-fitting to begin with, a couple of months in a stand-ing bottle may be enough 10 shrink it and let too much

Food Costs Dip Slightly In a Week

By SHAWN G. KENNEDY

Although the cost of feeding a family of four in New York City last week dropped below the previous week's level, the Department of Consumer Affairs reported that the price of meat was still high and that meat counter specials were becoming scarce.

The cost of a 38-item market basket for the week ending April 30 dropped to $71.10, which was 37 cents or 0.5 percent less than the cost of the same groceries purchased during the week ending April 23.

Elinor C. Guggenheimer, Commissioner of the Depart-ment of Consumer Affairs, said that while meat prices remained high last week, her department's shoppers did find that some stores were selling meat well below the average cost.

"If you want to avoid having to budget extra money in order to put meat on the table, try to budget some extra time to comparison shop for those elusive specials on meat and poultry. Commis-sioner Guggenheimer ad-

The difference between the citywide average price for bottom round roast, for exampie, and the sale price was as much as 52 cent per pound. The sale price for the bottom round at at least one market was $1.29 a pound while the citywide average for bottom round last week was $1.81.

The citywide average for tuna fish last week was 77 cents a pound, but a careful shopper could have found it for 49 cents a pound. And while the average price of a pound of pork chops was $1.91 last week, the sale price was as low as $1.39 a

Changes in last week's food costs included rice, which dropped from $1.27 for threepound box to $1.24; butter, which dropped from $1.38 a pound to $1.36, and potatoes, which went up from 89 cents to 93 cents for five pounds.

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, May 4—The United States team moved into the lead in the world team championship here this afternoon by crush-ing Hong Kong, which has yet to win a match, by 19 victory points to I.

The world champion Italians trailed at the half against Australia by 29 international match points, but pulled out match points, but putted out all the stops in the second half, winning 61 to 6 and scoring 14 to 6 in victory points. Brazil won by a similar margin against Israel, a team that has fared badly since its victory against Italy in the first round.

The standings after five rounds were: first, United States, 64; second, Italy, 61; third, Brazil, 58; fourth, Australia, 501/2; fifth, Israel, 44, and sixth, Hong Kong, 121/2.

Teams Meet Trouble Israel Beats Italy

For the second time this week, Israel pinned a heavy defeat on the Italian world champions. In play tonight, the Israelis won, 17 to 3, to follow their earlier victory by 20 to minus 1. The United States lost narrowly to Brazil, 8 to 12, again a virtual repeat of the earlier meeting between the same teams, and Australia beat Hong Kong.

In the Venice trophy match between the women cham-pions of North America and Europe, which began tonight, the Americans led the British after 28 deals of a scheduled 140 by 19 international match

Luck is involved

Extensive analysis of the American disaster against Italy yesterday suggests that luck favored the world champions more than at first appeared and that clear-cut American errors were not very numerous. The diagramed dea! featured a fascinating duel in a part-score in his latest book, "The Uses of En-mitment: The Meaning and Importance Fairy Tales," the noted child psycholoto Bettelbeim is out to turn the back. He believes traditional folk tales, such as "Cinderella," "Little Riding Hood" and "The Frog King," far more valuable to children than trast, a child whose mother had died and whose father had remarried became fixated on "Rapunzel" and found in the heroine's delivery from the witch symbolic hope that required no "realistic" testing, (Obviously she couldn't attract a liberating prince by letting her hair down out of her window.)

The child's "unrealistic fears require unrealistic hopes," concludes Dr. Bettelheim. "By comparison with the child's wishes, realistic and limited promises are experieoced as deep disappointment not as consolatioo. But they are all that a relatively realistic story can offer." In fact, I was so soon persuaded by Dr. Bettelheim's thesis that I arrived at his conclusion that fairy tales should be restored as the primary fare in children's reading about a hundred pages before he did. The result was a certain lag in my interest over the last third of the book a certaio impatience with his exhaustive analyses of "Hansel and Gretel," locks and the Three Bears," "The Sleeping Beauty" and "Cinderella"; not to speak of a certain irritation with sentences that read "The story of 'Hansel and Gretel' gives body to the anxieties and learning tasks of the young child who must overcome and sublimate his primitive incorporative and heoce destructive desires," or "Little Red [Riding Hood] is very much a child already struggling with pubertal problems for which she is not yet ready emotionally because she has not yet mastered her oedipal conflicts." As Dr. Bettelheim, apologizing for his heavyhandedness, quotes Yeats, "Tread softly because you tread on my dreams."

Snow White Transcends

Yet one's diminished interest over the last third of the book does not weigh that heavily in the balance. Besides, whenever one's attention is about to stray completely, Dr. Bettelheim fetches it back with a provocative passage or two - such as his footnote oo the Walt Disoey film of "Soow White," io which he observes, "Giving each dwarf a separate name and a distinctive personality - in the fairy tale they are all identical - seriously interferes with the uncooscious understanding that they symbolize an immature pre-individual form of existence which Soow White must transcend"; or the case be tries to make that "The Frog King" is superior to modern sex educatioo in its "understanding that the child may find sex disgustiog, and that this viewpoint has an important protective function for the child. .:

And no matter how analytical they become. Dr. Bettelheim's descriptions of the fairy tales still served to remind me in some obscure way of my childhood experience with them - or so I'm driven to cooclude by the noaccountable waves of fear and elatioo, hope and disconsolateness, that passed over me as I read "The Uses of Enchantment." Come to think of it, this may be the clinching point in Dr. Bettelheim's case that the fairy tales, ooce read, remain fixed in ooe's deepest unconscious. How else can I explain such a strong emotional response to Dr. Bettlehelm's rather dry and theoretical prose?

Adolph S. Ochs Stamp Will Be Issued in Fall

Freetal in The Ser York Times
WASHINGTON, May 4-A 13-cent commemorative stamp to be issued next fall will honor Adolph S. Ochs, former publisher of The New York Times, the Postal Service announced today.

Mr. Ochs, the maternal grandfather of The Times's resent publisher, Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, became publisher end controlling owner of The New York Times in 1896. He retained that position until his death in April,

The stamp, to be issued in New York on Sept. 18, is based on a portrait of Mr. Ochs by S. J. Wolff. It will identify its subject in the type that The Times uses for its nameplate. A photograph of the design will not be available for several weeks.

Other American publishers who have been honored by a commemorative or a regular slamp were Joseph Pulitzer, in 1947, and Horace Greeley, in 1961.

Politics of Retribution

In 1968, the right wing of the Republican Party led by Senators Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Strom Thurmond of South Carolina made possible the nomination of Richard Nixon because he seemed to he the hest het to win the election. In making this expedient judgment, the right wing rejected its own sentimental and ideological favorite, Gov. Ronald Reagao.

What did the conservatives get, in the way of foreign and military policy, as a result of their choice? They received another four years of war in Indochina and finally a "peace with honor" that collapsed in an emharrassing shambles. Otherwise, the G.O.P. conservatives obtained exactly nothing.

They were sent reeling with shock when Presideot Nixon in 1971 announced his opening to Communist China. Their dismay was intensified the following year when Mr. Nixon not only had a cordial visit with Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai in Peking hut followed it up with a friendly trip to Moscow complete with a huge sale of American grain and a strategic arms limitation agreement.

There was no effective way in 1972 that G.O.P. conservatives could register a political protest against this surprising drift of events. Mr. Nixon had no well-known opponent in the primaries. The Democratic candidacy of Senator George McGovern on a Vietnam peace platform seemed to pose an intolerable ideological threat in the general election. In a sense, the endless controversy over the Vietnam war served Mr. Nixon as a convenient screen to deflect right-wing political criticism of his Chinese and Russian policies.

Now Mr. Nixon is gone. Mr. Ford, his chosen successor, is feeling the main shock of the right wing's pent-up fury. This year, the conservative faction's candidate is that polished old crowd-pleaser, Mr. Reagan himself, making his long-delayed open run for the Presidency.

Mr. Ford tacks the sinuous Nixon skill at confusing and diverting the conservative attack. He is further weakened hecause Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger Is highly visible at his side and is perceived, with rough accuracy, as more influential in making American foreign policy than Mr. Ford is. Conservatives view Mr. Kissinger as the Sorcerer's Apprentice of the Nixon era who has become the chief troublemaker of the Ford era. Those with really long memories recall that he was Nelson Rockefeller's foreign affairs adviser before joining the Nixon regime, and Mr. Rockefeller-notwithstanding all his efforts to transform himself into a latter-day conservative-is still perceived as the hated ideological enemy of the Goldwater-Rockefeller struggle of 1964.

As President, Mr. Ford has submitted a hudget that gives the Defense Department about everything it could reasonably hope to get, from the B-1 homber to an enlarged nuclear Navy. The notion that Mr. Ford is willfully presiding over the decline of American military power seems absurd on its tace. Yet Governor Reagan is making political headway with this charge.

The surface facts of such unreal issues matter much less than the underlying resentment and anger of conservative voters at the whole course of foreign and military policy over the last eight years of the Nixoo-Ford-Kissinger period. Furthermore, as Mr. Ford slogs his weary way through the primaries, he has to struggle against the disbelief created by the cynicism and manipulative style of his predecessor.

Senator Thurmond is now supporting Mr. Reagan, but Senator Goldwater, "Mr. Conservative," is offering his personal guarantce of Mr. Ford's hona fides as he did for Mr. Nixon eight years ago, and he has been joined by Schator John Tower of Texas.

But many coascreative voters are no longer huying such assurances. They hought them in 1968 and feel they were "had." They may not be a majority of their party, much less of the nation, but they know what they want to do-and that is to act on their own ideological convictions and nationalist sentiments.

Shackles on Poland

The 35-nation East-West Conference on Security and Cooperatioo in Europe last year was seen by many as a harbinger of Communist polycentrism eveo in Eastero Europe. Rumanians, Yugoslavs, Hungarians, Czechoslowais and other East European Communists urged Western diplomats to complete the difficult negotiations and to attend the summit-level signiog in Helsinki not only to consolidate détente and increase East-West human contact, hut to shore up East European independence against Soviet hegemony.

But, instead of another nail in the coffin of the so-called "Brezhnev Doctrine"-which proclaimed, after the 1968 invasion of Czechoslovakia, the Soviet right to intervene at will anywhere in East Europe to maintain Communism—the Helsinki conference has been followed in Warsaw by an extraordinary revision of the Constitution that, among other changes, gives legal blessing to the near-suzerainty over Poland held since World War II by the Soviet Union.

Of four major proposed changes in the Constitution. three were watered down significantly after months of ochate within the Communist Party but the most dangerous remains intact: a reference to a unilateral legal obligation for Poland to remain an ally of the Soviet Union.

What Poles, including some high Communist officials. cicarly fear is a Soviet charge, in some future crisis, that the Warsaw regime has violated its constitutional ohligation to subservience to the Soviet alliance. A Soviet intervention might seek not only to "restore" Poland to the "commonwealth" status Moscow long has claimed as a cuphemism for its imperial domination of East Europe, but might even seek to absorb Poland into the Soviet Union.

Whether this Polish fear is soundly hased or not, the constitutionalization of the Brezhnev Doctrine a travesty of it now.

clearly makes a mockery of the Helsinki accords and will raise further doubts in the West about the value of Soviet pledges in other fields.

Taxing the Markets...

Governor Carey's new Council on the New York Economy is off to a mixed start in its first recommendations for tax relief to improve the husiness climate of city and state. The goal is commendableto avoid seemingly onerous taxes that only have the effect of forcing productive enterprises out of the region and thus reducing the effective tax base. But two of the first taxes singled out for correction, the city estate tax and the stock transfer tax, are quite different in their respective impacts.

We believe, along with the Temporary Commission on City Finances, that the estate tax is inherently counterproductive; it is too easy for the wealthy to avoid the tax, achieving substantial savings thereby. The same cannot be said of the stock transfer tax, at least in the coming year or two.

For all their growing vulnerability, the New York and American Stock Exchanges remain entrenched as the nation's primary marketplaces. Looking ahead five years or so, this primacy may indeed he lost to a national electronic market system; a heavy and permanent stock transfer tax would be self-defeating, hastening the dispersion of the aecurities industry as computer-. ized communications are substituted for geographical proximity on Wall Street's trading floors.

But no such change is going to come about overnight or even in the coming two years, whether there is a stock transfer tax or not. The interest shown by various brokerage firms in moving to New Jersey is alarming; hut it is not clear that the transfer tax is the major or even a principal reason for this threatened exodus. The city tax is a significant factor only for large block traders, and these sophisticated investors have their own incentives for shopping around among the regional exchanges; for the smaller traders, whose transactions flow routinely to the New York exchanges, the transfer tax is scarcely a noticeable factor in investment decisions.

Far too little independent analysis has been done of the financial impact of the stock transfer tax upon the securities industry as a whole. There is certainly no need to take at face value the industry's exaggerated claims of revenues and jobs that would he lost if the transfer tax were to be retained. Nor can it be stated with confidence how sensitive the securities industry would he to the proposed reduction of expected revenuesnow totaling $215 million from the stock transfer tax.

Instead of jumping at such a visible but dubious target for reform, the Council on the Economy would be better advised to undertake its own analysis of the stock transfer tax. Any such important revenue source should he considered only in the context of the city's total tax structure and needs.

Need for Coordination

From the start last month, Governor Carey's decision to name a Council on the New York Economy invited a degree of skepticism, coming as it did on the heels of a series of apparently uncoordinated gubernatorial moves to fight what he has correctly labeled New York's Numher One problem-the declining economy of hoth city and state.

Within less than a year, Mr. Carey has handed essentially the same economic development mandate successively to a new Ecocomic Development Board, to State Commerce Commissioner John S. Dyson, and most recently to the Municipal Assistance Corporation, which managed the city's fiscal rescue. The result, as M.A.C. Chairman Felix Rohatyn has candidly observed, has been merely to add "confusion" to the proliferation of agencies already engaged in the development effort.

The new council, which was created at the urging of Mr. Rohatyn and others, is designed to end the confusion hy hringing representatives of the principal economic agencies together under leadership of Governor Carey and Mayor Beame. Its success will depend on the determination with which they work together to establish priorities, assign responsibilities and coordinate a common effort to achieve realistic development goals.

With husiness continuing to quit city and state at an alarming rate, there is no time to lose on coordination.

Park Travesty

New York never loses its sense of the ludicrous. But a particularly fice pitch of foolishness has been reached with the Parks Department-endorsed artist-in-residence program for the city's parks. The artist-in-residence will halance logs, stones, boulders and tree boughs in compositions called "Accents on Nature" on a one-a-day basis in May and June in Battery Park and the Bronx Botanical Gardens, in what the program's sponsor, the Public Arts Council of New York City, considers a significant "first." The creative act will be photodocumented and accompanied by mime, ballet, music

Anyone for photo-documenting erosion, damaged trees, silted-up lakes and ponds, beer cans and candy wrappers? How about balanced composition of paper cups and ice cream sticks? They are as much a part of the parks today as grass-freshly, innocently green and soon to be trampled by summer throngs of concert-goers and festival celebrants. What the parks need is a horticulturist-in-residence accompanied by a troupe of graceful litter picker-uppers. There are clearly more rational philanthropic priorities than upstaging nature. Park maintenance is almost abandoned and corrective work impossible; the fiscal crisis has meant cutbacks on cuthacks. Although the proposed artwork may be admirable and the intentions good, the art of landscape is the only art the parks require. No one needs

Bridge Tolls: Flawed Negative Incentives Key to Mideast Peace

To the Editor: While the clean-air plan recently supported by the U.S. Court of Appeals has noble Objectives, one wonders if the powers that be are really in touch with the people that are.

At least one part of the plan, the proposed East/Harlem River tolls, is. shortsighted solution to the city's traffic congestion and pollution ills. Not only is this another economic hurden, but it will probably have the reverse effect of its well-meaning objec-

How can a facility which impedes the flow of traffic hope to reduce congestion and pollution? It's been shown time and again that negative incentives will not coerce people from their cars in any significant numbers. And any environmental benefits derived from a marginal reduction in traffic will undoubtedly be offset by cars backed up at toll booths, thereby aggravating congestion/pollution prob-

Where are the exclusive bus lanes that would noticeably speed on public transportation at the expense of private cars? Instead of improvement in mass transit, however, the city's traditional response to its failure to increase mass-transit ridership has been fare hikes-resulting in additional reductions in patronage and further financial losses.

The Court of Appeals decision spotlights the relationship of the city's public-transportation and environmental ills and the limitations of our proposed "corrective" action, Negative incentives like bridge tolls in an attempt to make private auto travel less appealing than mass transit can only work when that mass transit providesa superior alternative.

The city cannot adopt punitive measures as a substitute for constructive action. They may he easier to effect but not more effective. The degree of success we have in encouraging the use of public vs. private transportation is dependent on real improvements in the system, not on making mass transit the lesser of two evils

About Race Hatred And Death Penalty

To the Editor: Newspaper columnists speculating on the Supreme Court's probable action next June in the capital-punishment cases, mistakenly link the matter too closely to 1972 Furman v. Georgia, in which Justices White and Stewart limited the 5-to-4 strike-down to death sentences made capricious by the options given to judge and jury.

A lot has happened since 1972. Thirty-five state legislatures have imposed mandatory death sentences for certain crimes. By March of this year, when the new cases were argued, more than 400 persons had been sent to the new death row, 75 in North Carolina alone. The present figure is 532. By mid-Juna It may well be over 600. They have certain things in common. All are poor. Nearly all are black. Most were tried and convicted in Southern rural counties.

Mandatory death sentences are proving more capricious, more arbitrary, more "cruel and unusual" than optional sentences. They are being used throughout the South in an orgy of legalized genocide of blacks.

The Eighth Amendment came straight. down from England's 'Bloody ASsizes," during which a traveler could cross England from sea to sea, guided hy the heads and entrails of innocent" victims spiked on poles. Of South Korea's Economic Growth

Fort Lee, N.J., April 27, 1976

Professor Falk's April 25 Op-Ed article depicts an extremely distorted picture of Korean economic development and its political implications Central to Mr. Falk's exposition of Korean ecocomic development is his lack of understanding-not to mention his hias-of the dynamics and complexities involved in the phenomenon of "growth." Inequalities inhere in any economic growth, if it is to be attained in the capitalistic framework, which carries differential rates of Income. The tragic industrialization in the West at its early stages invariably records that the rate of income increase among working classes lagged far behind that of the upper-income group. Needless to say that both the European and the American scenes were attended by "outrageously" low wages, harsh repression and incomparably miserable working-class conditions.

To the Editor:

A recent study by the World Bank confirms a balanced and relatively equitable income distribution attained by Korea. For any society, if economic growth is to be achieved at the rate of, say, 6 to 7 percent a year, low wages or relative inequities are inevitable until a level is reached in which growth can allow gradual redistribution of national wealth to the theretofore neglected autonomy" largely because of foreign investment and borrowings. An economic system with scarce natural resources and a negligible amount of domestic capital formation cannot even dare to expect a development thrust without initially attracting foreign investment and imports. Nevertheless, he clearly needs to be reminded that the debt-service ratio of the Korean economy has always been and still is, at a relatively safe level of less than 15 percent, which hardly implies the kind of danger expressed by Mr. Falk. He further attributes a lack of national autonomy to foreign investment and speaks of its possible leverage on domestic affairs. This argument smacks of an anachronistic, imperialistic notion from the turn of this century and ignores today's interdependent, multinational realities. MYEUNG-HO OH

Hatem Hussaini has eloquently described the feelings of the Arah Palestinians who cannot return to their homes [Op-Ed April 24]. I know it will give him cold comfort to be seminded that he is not alone in being unable to return to the scenes of his childhood. The Kurds, the Hindus, the Mostems of India have been displaced from their ancient homes. The Jews of Iraq, Syria. Egypt, Morocco and Yemen all fled to Israel to escape oppressive regimes, some of which practiced humiliations we associate with medieval times. America is largely populated by people disposessed from their homes.

The fact of being on the losing end of a dispute over the posession of land is not a uniquely Arab Palestinian phenomenon; the Arab Palestinian reaction is. The Arabs talk much of inalienable rights. No rights are inalienable which impinge upon the rights of others. Mr. Hussaini strikes the heart of the matter when he lists Israelis who speak for justice for Palestinians. Does Mr. Hussami mention anywhere or can he compile a list of Arabs—or even one prominent Arab—who speak for justice for the Jews? The matter will only be resolved when both sides recognize that compromise is preferable to constant warfare.

What is it that the Israelis ask for that the Arabs find so objectionable? They only ask to be allowed to remain on that tiny fraction of land which they have watered with their blood and sweat. The Arabs have made it abundantly clear that they cannot and will not permit Jews to live in dignity in their midst. The Israelis demand that those who have demonstrated their hostility move onto the major portion of Palestine now held by their brethren, coreligionists and Pan-Arabists. It is possible to build a Middle Eastern area which has room for all, which can utilize the diverse talents of all of the inhabitants for peace rather than war. If following that course tends to place the press in ao adversary position vis-à-vis not only government but any and all other institutions, so much the better for us and for them, and most of all for the public. The adversary position is indeed the natural position for a presa that takes seriously its responsibility to uncover what is wrong or corrupt in public life, or with private iostitutions or individuals whose activities affect the public interest. But a much more difficult problem is the obverse of this ooe. Does the press not also have the responsibility of making the judgment not to publish, the responsibility of self-restraint, of withholding a potentially dangerous secret, of refusing to publish details that could damage the nation's security or an individual's reputation?

The dilemma is a terribly real one. No oewspaperman wants to damaga the national security; and yet no newspaperman any longer places full faith and credit in the phrase "national security," which bas so often been used as a wrapper to clothe error, venality, corruption or even a drift toward authoritarianism and per-time that information allegedly involving national security is published in the American press, the question is un-attack than at any tima sinca tha Sedition Act nearly two centuries ago. As the press has assumed the responsibility in recent years of inquiring into the hidden recesses of government-executive, legislative and judicial-tha reaction on the part of governing authority has been to attempt to place new and unaccustomed restrictions upon it. The attacks take various forms. One used with growing frequency, is the "gag order," a kind of prior censorship forbidding the press to publish certain material oo the ground that to do so would endanger the defendant's right to a fair trial.

occasion conflict; the question is a real one and is under constant scrutiny and discussion by both press and courts. But it would surely be better to impose sanctions on officers of the court to forestall leaks, and use other devices such as sequestration of juries and changes of venue than to introduce ceosorship through loose employment of the gag order; as is done so often

Similarly, the repeated use of the subpoena power in recent years to force newspapermen to testify before a grand jury or to reveal their sources in criminal cases represents another potentially crippling attack on press and public freedom, for the very basic reason that confidentiality of sources is at the heart of the newspaper's ability to function.

But the press does not help its case by insisting on an absolutist position, on regarding the First Amendment as automatically overriding every other a sham.

Freedom of the press in the United automatically overfitting every other automatically learned that States today is under more serious provision of the Constitution, not to mention commoo sense. The press is not going to retain-or regain-public confidence if it is perceived to be constantly arrogant, unwilling to recognize conflicting rights, or oot too concerned about maintaining the most rigid standards to protect and preaerve its own integrity.

Newspapermeo have a special obligation to retain public confidence through cooscious and deliberate effort to open ourselves to the public, to pay particular attention to complaints of unfairness, inaccuracy, bias, vindictiveness-that is, to make ourselves voluntarily accountable. Soma newspapers have already gooe a coosiderable distance in doing just thisbut not many and certainly not

FTHERE comes to be a widespread public convictioo that the press is a closed institution and therefore not to be trusted, or that the press is willing to defy the national interest or trample oo iodividual rights merely to sell papers, the First Amendment protections may indeed crimble before the combined assault of legislatures and courts. The result, as President David Truman of Mount Holyoke College recently said, will be "far more damaging to the national interest than any [restrictions] resulting from a responsible selfrestraint by the press."

The legal right inherent in the First Amendment carries with it a moral obligation, a kiod of moral compact between press and people. This is not something that can be enforced; but it is something that the press will ignore at its own and the country's

Funniest Show in Town

By James Reston

Tha funniest thing that has hap-pened in the Presideotial electioo so far is the emergeoce of Ronald Reagan as an expert on foreign and military policy. Not since Julie Andrews turned Eliza Doolittle into "My Fair Lady" has there been such an amusing and unlikely transformation.

Io those far-off and forgettable days when Richard Nixon was Presideot of the United States and presided over what used to be called "The Western White House" at San Clemente, be used to order Henry Kissioger to fly over to Sacramento and "brief" Governor Reagan on the ambiguous mysteries of foreign affairs.

Mr. Kissinger, of course, did as he was told, but testified later that seldom in his long experience as a teacher had he come across a more gullible pupil with less knowledge of the subject. Yet here is Mr. Reagan now on center stage, rushing to the rescue of the Panama Canal, protecting the Peotagon that is down to a budget of a mere $115 billioo a year, coodemning President Ford for losing to the Russians in the military play-offs, and tossing Kissinger overboard.

As a theatrical exercise, with Wee Jimmy out in froot on the other stage. it's the only show in town, and the best role Ronnie ever had; but as a political performance, even though be has had good notices in Texas and Indiana, it's obviously a loser, and even a laugher.

Governor Reagan, with his Panama and military budget policies and his attacks on his own party's President and Secretary of State, has achieved something the Democrats oever thought possible: He has unified both Barry Goldwater and Nelson Rockefeller, of all people, in opposition to his campaign rhetoric.

Senator Goldwater, who isn't accustomed to cutting up Republican conservatives on national television, advised Mr. Reagan the other day on "Meet the Press" to stop condemning Mr. Ford's efforts to get a compromise on the Paoama Canal unless he wanted to go to war on the Issue,

"I have to support Ford's position on it [the Panama Canal]," Goldwater said, "and I think Reagan would too if he knew more about it." Asked about this, Governor Reagan replied: "I don't think that is the question. The people of the United States do not want to give the Panama Canal away."

Asked how far he would go to sustaio his position, Reagan said, "How far would we go to stop somebody from taking the state of Alaska? He maintaiged that the Canal Zoge "is sovereign United States territory won't last for loog.

the part of Texas that came out of the Gadsden Purchase and tha states that were carved out of the Louisians

With answers like that, Reagan couldn't pass a test in freshman American history. Nelson Rockefeller, on another network program, flunked him cold. "Mr. Reagan is telling the American people things that are not true about Panama," he said. Rocke-feiler recalled that William Howard Taft, President and later Chief Justice, had informed President Theodore Roosevelt that "we do not have sovereignty - sovereign possession of the Panama Canal."

Mr. Rockefeller added that be thought Mr. Reagan was a "tremendously attractive person," but inaccurate and irresponsible in his charges.

"I think he is totally deceptive in the way be is raising the issues," Rockefeller said. "I think he is blaming Ford for something that is not Ford's problem. He should be blaming Congress for our military weakness at this particular poiot, not the President.... A man wbo doesn't do his homework on key issues of national securityone has to have doubts as to his capacity as President."

Mr. Goldwater, as usual, put it plain: "Unless we come to some agreement with the Panamanian Government," ha said, "there is going to be guerrilla war."

What he did not say, but is well known to tha leaders of both partiea here, is that if wa follow the Reagan line, the guerrilla war will not be by Panama alone but by volunteer fighters from all over Latin America against the United States.

Mr. Reagan could confirm this quite quickly by checking with former Secretary of Defense Schlesinger, who is supposed to be his military adviser. Schlesinger has approved oegotiating a compromise with Panama. Reagan, however, is not looking for the facts but reaching for votes, and maybe the funniest thing of all is that a lot of peopla believe him.

But probably not for long. He looks and souods persuasive only unless you don't think about what he says. It is absurd to take him seriously oo foreign or military affairs, and ridiculous to believe, whatever his occasional successes, that the Republican Party, which has the allegiance of ooly 19 percent of the registered voters, would reject their own President and divide their own party for a man who would rather be on stage than on line with the truth.

Nobody can blame the old trouper for holding on to the limelight. It's the best miscast part he ever had, but it's more theater than politics and

FOREIGN AFFAIRS

By C. L. Sulzberger

Tritium is a component of H-bombs derived from many ores although often associated with aluminum. In the West it is now produced by America and France. It is not only costiv but decays rapidly, with a balf-life of 12.5 years as compared to millions of years for uranium and thousands of years for plutonium. But fusionable tritium is enormously more explosive than either of the abova fissionable elements. It is also far lighter and therefore capable of propulsion by smaller weapons systems,

Why were the British giving up their guaranteed American source of tritium and constructing their own facilities at Chapelcross and Galloway in the U.K.? Britain is broke and curbing almost every other expenditure including the Dragon-of which more later. Is the change to create jobs, to save mooey by saving dollars, to make a brand-new secret weapon, or to safeguard against the fear of a sudden American cut-off?

Or is it to free Britain from U.S. restrictions, thus allowing It to go ahead with an oft-mentioned, neveragreed plan to join France in building "European" nuclear forca pooled by the two countries? Fusioo warheads like those based on tritium have virtually no fallout, unlike fission weapons based on uranium and plutooium. This is vital in considering the defense of tiny, populated Europe.

As for the Common Market flap: Washington inspired secret meetings last year to work ont a secret accord between three Euratom members (Britain, France, West Germany) and four other nations (the U.S.A., Russia, Canada and Japan) restricting exports of specialized ouclear materials.

But the other six Common Market partners were told nothing about their three partners' deal, until last week. Wby not? Also, why were they informed last week? Above all, wby did London and Paris spurn a Bonn suggestion that reference to Euratom (Common Market nuclear branch) be made in the original pact?

Finally there is the strange Dragoo case. This is a unique nuclear reactor built in Britain for the benefit of O.E.C.D. members. It is the world's only versatile high-temperature experimeotal nuclear facility and could attain temperatures of 1,000 degrees centigrade as compared with 300 to 500 achieved by ordinary nuclear reactors.

With the Dragon's technology it would be possible to produce metals like iron or aluminum directly from their ores by beat itself-like global creation-instead of by indirect electrical processes. The Dragon potentially could gasify coal or produce

In the nuclear energy field tha Dragon's demise is compared by scientists with the kind of faulty judgment which in the political field led to Watergate. The remarkable facility itself, born in 1959 thanks to an O.E.C.D. protocol, came into operation five years later in Winfrith Heath, England. It was named for the renowned hot breath of the mythical dragon.

Why was it killed? The slaughter was allegedly pushed by Britain's energy minister as a money-saving gimmick. Is it worth the price to international knowledge? It will delay for years the advance of some types of beneficial research. Will another Dragoo have to be constructed at far greater expense later on?

And what has the Dragon's death got to do with other nuclear developmeots? British manufacture of tritium may cost more than is saved by murdering the Dragon. And why the argument about excluding Euratom from a secret nuclear agreement, largely at Londoo's request? These events approximately coincide. Something seems The Electric Economy.

REPORTERS CHIDED ON BUSINESS NEWS

Publishers Told Executives Complain Some Writers Are 'Over Their Heads'

By DERIDRE CARMODY The two major complaints by businessmen about financialnews reporting are that many reporters are "out to get business" and that some of the many reporters are "over their heads" when reporting business news, Frederic W. West Jr., president of Bethlehem Steel Corporation, told members of the American Newspaper Publishers Association yesterday at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

His speech echoed a theme that is increasingly becoming part of a public debate in editorials, magazine articles and financial and journalism publications. The relationship between business and the press was recently described by Donald S. MacNaughton, chairman of the Prudential Insurance Company of America, as "two strange dogs, circling each other warily, suspicious of each other's inteotions. Part of what businessmen see as the antibusiness attitude of the press has been ascribed to a post-Watergate mentality that views all institutions of that views all institutions of power and influence as fair targets of scrutiny to see if they are indeed doing their job.

According to Mr. West, journalists are suspicious of business, but "they're equally suspicious of just about everybody in positions of power influence." in positions of power, influence and wealth; that's why com-plaints about press bias come-from just about every sector, of society."

"Muddled" Reporting

"My advice to the husiness community is to stop worrying so much about whether or not members of the press are prejudiced one way or the other."
Mr. West said. "Let's realize; that some of the reporting that gets our blood up is probably more muddled than it is mali-

Businessmen contend that; muddled and often inaccurate; reporting pose the chief probproblems. In a number of recent journalism seminars heads of corporations have contended that many reporters are assigned to complicated, sensitive financial news stories that they simply do not have the ecocom-ic background to understand. Replying to this criticism, newpapermen generally say that if top executives, who can really answer the questions and explain complex situations adequately, were more accessible to reporters, there would be more accurate reporting.

Often these executives tend to let their public-relations representatives answer all queseven though spokesmen are often ignorant themselves of the subtleties in question.
As an example of what he meant by a journalist without the proper background for his subject. Mr. West told of the "aggressive wire-service repor-ter" who interviewed the chief financial Officer of American Telephone and Telegraph. During the course of the interview, it turned out that the reporter oid not know the difference between stocks and bonds.

Mr. West also had sugges-tions for business. He said that there had to be better communication between business and the press. He pleaded for the use of "plain, understandable English whenever possible."

He suggested that businessmen become more accessible to reporters and that businesses should sponsor educational seminars. These would help train reporters in specialized fields that they had to cover as part of their busioess news

"There is virtually no chance that any civilization we contact in space will be as backward as we."

Carl Sagan thinks it highly improbable that life originated only on Earth. And, that being the case, it is highly probable that other forms of life, elsewhere and older, are more advanced than we are.

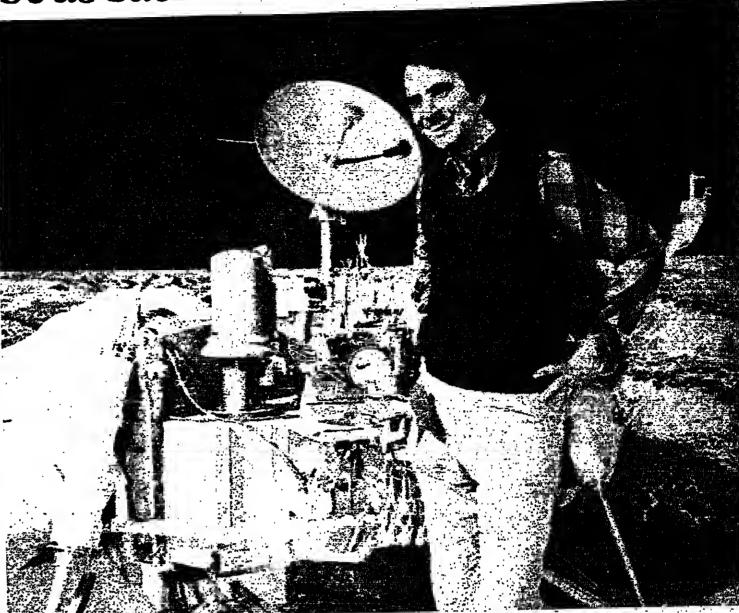

"We have developed radio astronomy only recently. Anyone signifi-cantly dumber than we can't communicate over interstellar distances at all. So any civilization which does make contact with us is bound to be more advanced. It's a humbling realization."

Sagan's interest in the planets and exobiology goes back to his childhood. In adult life he has expressed this interest through many contributions to our understanding of the solar system, to spacecraft missions to the planets, and to listening for radio signals from space.

"In all the history of mankind this will be regarded as the golden age of planetary exploration."

At 41, he is Professor of Astronomy and Space Sciences at Cornell and Director of its Laboratory for Planetary Studies. Educated at the University of Chicago (A.B., B.S., M.S., and Ph.D. in Astronomy and Astrophysics), he has authored or co-authored more than a dozen books, almost 400 scientific papers, two SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN articles, and edits learns: International Journal of Solar System Studies. He received the NASA Medal for Exceptional Scientific Achievement for his studies of Mars with Mariner 9, and has been awarded three honorary doctorates in the last year. Sagan has also won a number of awards for his efforts to popularize the enterprise of science on television, in magazine articles and in books.

Two Viking spacecraft now hurtling towards Mars should enable Sagan and other project scientists to take a really close look for signs of life, among other phenomena, on the red planet. Starting this summer. Sagan and his project teammates will bivouac at Cal Tech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory for six months as the Viking results come in—bit by digital bit.

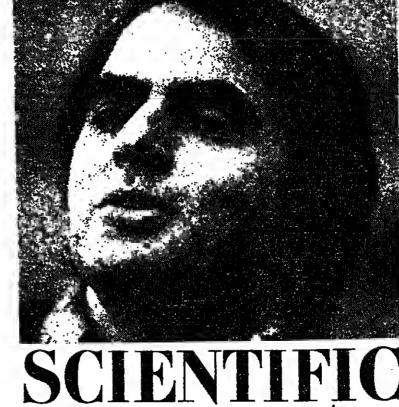

"What are we likely to find on Mars? Mars is a different place from Earth, but until Viking we do not know enough either to exclude or to guarantee the possibility of life there. What we do know is that every time we have looked at Mars in finer detail we have discovered entire new sets of astonishments and delights, things no one ever guessed would be there."

Carl and his wife, Linda Salzman, collaborated on the design of the plaque attached to the Pioneer 10 spacecraft, the first conscious message of mankind to other civilizations in space.

discovery is our most important product. SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is the magazine of discovery, attracting a growing number of newsstand buyers and subscribers. Each month it is read by more than 1.5 million men and women who turn new ideas into a better life for everyone.

James R. Schlesinger, the former Defense Secretary, said in a Washington speech that the Ford Administration was undermining American "moral support" for Israel by undue pressure for Israeli concessions to the Arabs. He said that Israel, like South Vietnam in 1972-73, was being blamed for failure to make progress toward a settlement. Without meotioning Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, he seemed to be criticizing his negotiating tactics. [Page I, Columns I-2.] Prime Minister Ian D. Smith'a bringing four African chiefa into his Cabinet appears unlikely to aid a political aettlement of the Rhodesian crisis. Opposition has come from blacks, liberals, the right wing and, reportedly, from the more conservative elements of his own ruling party, the Rhodeslan Front. Insofar as the chiefs oppose both guerrilla warfare and more moderate aspirations for black majority rule, their installation is aeen as a aign that Mr. Smith's own positioo bas hardened. [I:1.] The Treasury Department said Volkswagen, Volvo, Renault and other leading foreign car manufacturers had been selling cars in the United States for less than at home. But it said the companies would not be penalized for dumping if a satisfactory solution can be reached with the companies involved. Assessment of penalties might bave led to cancellation of Volkswagen's plans to build an American plant and damaged relations with major partners. [1:1-2.]

Ronald Reagan beld a narrow but steady lead over President Ford in the key Republican Presidential primary in Indiana. The challenger's performance was his best to date in a Northern state, adding momentum his campaign against the incumbent. Jimmy Carter won the Indiana Democratic primary, a task made easier by the withdrawal of Senator Henry M. Jackson, whose name remained on the ballot. Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama was running second, but with only a threadbare reprise of his 41 percent of the Democratic vote io 1972. [1:5-8.] Mr. Carter won the Presidential preference primary in Georgia and all of the 50 Democratic delegates in a separate election, while Mr. Reagan won the Republican primary and all 48 delegates. In Alabama, Mr. Carter was trailing for. Wallace in early returns in the delegate contest, but in the District of Columbia he showed unexpected strength, with his delegate slate holding a narrow lead, [1:5.]

The strike of building service employees, which began primarily in Manhattan, spread to apartment houses in Brooklyn and Queens with no signs of an early settlement. The leader of the striking local said that 2,500 of the 4,000 buildings where its members worked had been struck and that the walkout would be expanded to Staten Island today. The Broax is unaffected. [1:4.]

New Jersey's Environmental Protection Commissioner, David J. Bardin, said the state would try to block construction of tha world's first floating nuclear plants, off Atlantic City, unless the Federal Government carefully analyzed the risks involved in the event of a major accident. Acknowledging that a major catastrophe was extremely unlikely, he nevertheless said the innovative technology "demands careful assessment both of benefits and of detriments, including any novel risks." Eugene Hollander, the nursing-home operator who had pleaded guilty to a charge of inflating Medicare reimbursement claims by more than $100,000, was sentenced to speod nights in a Federal jail for up to six months and ordered to sever all connections with nursing homes. He was fined $10,000, and received a suspended five-year prison term and five years' probetion which was contingent on his repaying all illegally obtained money and assets. [1:3-4.]

Members of the City Council's Finance Committee, prodded by parent groups at a hearing, indicated that they intended to assert their authority to change priorities in the education budget for the first time since the school system was decentralized in 1970. They said they planned a shift from the central New York City Board of Education of up to $27 million to community school districts to bolster instruction. [1:5.]

Australia Chooses 'Waltzing Matilda' As Official Anthem

CANBERRA, Australia, May 4 (UPI)—Prime Mioister Mai-colm Fraser annouoced today that Australia had decided to make "Waltzing Matilda" its national anthem although "God Save the Queen" will still be played for royal occasions. "Waltzing Matilda," which won international recognition in the two Word Wars and later as the theme of a movie about a nuclear holocaust, "On the Beach," was written by the Australian national poet, A.B. "Banjo" Patterson, and was first played at a horse race in 1895.

The lyrics tell the story of a swagman (drifter) who stola a jumbuck (sheep) from a squatter (rancher) and escaped state troopers by jumping into a billahong (small lake or la-goon). The swagman drowned. Discarded were the more dig-lifted and little known "Song of Australia" and "Advance Australia Fair." The latter was often criticized for its expansionist overtones. Mr. Fraser told the House of Representatives:

"At functions like the Olympic Games a purely Australian song should be observed. And the Government is strongly of the opinion that it should be

'Waitzing Matilda.' "It is more appropriate than 'Advance Australia Fair,' be-cause this refera to 'Britannia Rules the Waves' and that would seem to me a little out of date and not in accordance with national sentiment. "Waltzing Matilda' ia recog-nized around the world as Aus-tralian and moves the hearts and miods of all Australians." Halen Kellar Canter Backed

Rushing Toward the Past

By TOM BUCKLEY

When the curtain goes up at this afternoon's perform-ance of "Very Good Eddie."

Charles F. Maurice will be in the audience as usual. He has missed only a couple of Wednesday matinees, while he was laid up with the flu, since the revival of the Jerome Kern-Guy Boltoo musical of 1915 arrived on Broadway from the Goodspeed Opera House last December. Including occasional evening performances, he has seen it 20 times or more. The bewitched theatergoer, like the chorus girl who is working for her doctorate. is osually the inspiration of a slipping show's press agent, but "Very Good Eddie" is still doing excellent business and the press agent was only peripherally involved. More important, Mr. Maurice turned out to be interesting in his own right—one of the last of the social type that flourished in the New York of yesteryear, the man about town.

A bacbelor with no close relations, he lives comfortably, but modestly, as ha has throughout his life, on an inherited income. Until a few years ago he was a world traveler. He still is an invet-erate theater- and concertgoer. Among his clubs are the Union, the oldest io the city, the Players and the Harvard. He was graduated from Harvard in 1928.

He atands an erect 6 feet 41/2, his skin is healthily pink, he wears ahabby Brooks suits, and at the age of 70 be still has the guileless face and sudden enthusiasms of a mao whose passage through life has avoided the shoals and breakers.

"My grandfather was an eogineer, as was my father," he said one afternoon recently in his apartment on East 68th Street. "My grandfather built the railroad bridge over built the railroad bridge over the Hudson at Pougbkeepsie in 1886. He knew Mr. Prooter of Procter & Gamble and used some of his profits on the bridge to buy stock in the company. It turned out to be a very wise thing to do."

Not that Mr. Maurice haa Not that Mr. Maurice has been a droos of the Bertie Wooster type. In the 1930's, he was a partner in a leather goods concern, which made comparatively few demands on his time. For 10 years or so, beginning in 1943, he was a full-time volunteer worker at the old Henrital for the a full-time volunteer worker at the old Hospital for the Ruptured and Crippled on East 42d Street. years and I couldn't wait another minute.
"Mrs. Morris told me, You go right on upstairs and sit down. There are plenty of empty seats. Well, I did, and I must say I have been io a perfect daze of delight ever since. The thing I like best about it, aside from those marvelous Jerome Kern songs, is that there are no dirty words in it. It's about nice young people not saying ugly things to each other.

been pining to see it for 60

"After I had been to see housekeepers they would make. They would tell me that they thought it was a splendid show, but that it turoed out oot to be true?"

Since then, Mr. Maurice has become a frequent visitor backstage. He frequently re-ciprocates the pleasure he derives from the show by inviting members of the cast to dine with him at the Union on Sunday evenings, their night off.

"They are wonderful boya and girls, and I think that appearing in the show has a very good effect on them." he said. "I was backstage one he said. "I was backstage one night not long ago and I heard one of the boya say, 'Oh, shucks.' I said, 'Oh, you dear boy, that's the way we used to talk back in 1915. God bless you for that nice old world."

Hanging in Mr. Maurice's living room is a portrait of his father. He sits at the oars of a skiff on a lake in the Adirondacks where the family had its summer home. Was this the past, he was asked, to which his fascination with "Very Good Eddie," and its blazers and banjos and in-

Gifts Rain on 50 Millionth Empire State Visitor, From Germany

By PETER KIHSS

Iogo Eilera paid $1.70 for ticket for his wife, Helga, and $1.70 for himself to visit the 86th-floor observatory of the Empire State Building vesterday morning - and then came the avalanche.

Mrs. Eilers, 46 years old, of Bremen, West Germany, was suddenly informed she was the observatory's 50th millionth visitor. And then she got an official key to the city, a sterling silver lifetime pass for the observatory, a aul Revere sterling silver shell per set a cilver shell per set a cilver silver shell pen set, a silver desk model of the 102-story huilding, a Steubeo glass "Big Apple" sculpture representing the city and an array of many other gifts.

"I just bought two tickets," Mr. Eilers said, marveling. "My wife was looking for pamphlets along the wail. Two men spoke to her. I asked if they were selling something." Beset hy dignitaries of all kiods, Mrs. Eilers said it was all wonderful. It was ber first visit to the United States, the third for her busband. $1,776 a Week for Life Won by Jersey Clerk

McAFEE, N. J., May 4—A 54-year-old shipping clerk who said he had told his bosa "I'm going to win" did just that today, taking the third and final grand prize of New Jersey's 1776 Instant Lottery, which will pay him $1,776 a week for life.

The wincer, Henry Smy-kowski of Parsippany, said he had assured his employer, the Bloomfield Manufac-turing Company in Fairfield, N. J., that he would win and that "I woo't be in tomorrow.

'And I woo't be," he added, after coming into his sudden fortune this after-award will go to his heirs for at least 20 years, for a minimum of $1,847,080.

TODAY SIZ 484 THE SEASON'S MISS

> BOCA RATON, Fla., May 4 The weather has improved, spirits are risible and wit rat-tied in its scabbard like a thirsty quill this morning, on the third day of deliberations by the Association of Ameri-ao Publishers at its annual ained-on convention.

Andrew H. Neilly Jr., who comorrow departs from his A.A.P. chairmanship to remme full-time duties at John Wiley & Sons, was moved to ave at one point in the proleadings, "I regard this dislay of literacy as entirely ut of keeping with a meetng of publishers." He also romised to throw his golf lubs into the lake this afteroon: "One decisive act in a fetime otherwise devoid of '-tonfrontations."

Tha literacy he deplored longed to Representative dward W. Pattison, Demoat of New York, and to oubleday's Alexander C. oubleday's Alexander C. offman, who introduced tha longressman to the publishs. Both had resorted to quolions from "Alice in Wonlirland" in trying to suggest te complexities of the new ipyright bill passed last bruary by the Senate and arked now for House conleration. Asked a tough estion, Representative Paton went so ar as to rese proverb: "To prophesy difficult, especially in rerd to the future."

Robert L. Bernstein, presint of Random House, retaled by quoting two poems Dorothy Parker in his induction of a second Connaid M. Fraser, Democrat Minnesota.

All Setween Congressmen, In F. Vance of McGrawdidn't quote anything but tistics, and even those re calculated to improve psychic weather: Bookustry sales in 1975 ustry sales in 1975 ched $3.8 billion. The riscurve, as Representative ser observed, looked like distribution of Somissile capabilities. llearly, braios had been feed dry and were feisty.

that the rain would rot them, like cardboard. The A.A.P. insists on serious speeches late at night, after dinner, when the membership is when the membership is about as sentient as a palm tree. Last night Daniel Boorstin, the historian and Librarian of Congress, spoke on "Space, Time and Books." He seemed to be reading from an unpublished monograph on TV and books. He might as well have been talking about the teleology of bow ties.

In fact, with such phrases as "the displacive fallacy," "the instant everywhere," "the disposable everything," "the disposable everything,
"the asylum for any few"
and "congenital emphasis,"
he could have been talking about anything. Clumps of publishers slumbered in their ice buckets.

But this morning they were alert. The business meeting, a bureaucratic hy-giene, went briskly and dissentless. The Congressmen were closely questioned Rep-resentative Pattison was es-pecially good on explaining pragmatism: Wheo it comes to copyright law, everybody

— publishers, teachers, librarians, movie makers, recording companies, performing-arts societies, public broadcasters and cable-TV people — is a "special pleader." More like Solomon than Solon, Congressmen than Solon, compromise.

A National Endowment Fund for Carnegie Hall

May 5, 1976 is Carnegie Hall's eighty-fifth birthday. At the summit of musical excellence, Carnegie Hall has been the goal of virtually every symphony orchestra and solo artist of stature.

During the sixteen years that it has been a non-profit institution, Carnegie Hall has not depended on fund raising campaigns. Now, however, the creation of the Endowment Fund has become essential. It has three principal objectives: to assure that growing economic pressures do not diminish Carnegie Hall's standard of excellence; to make possible the ability to search out new opportunities for programming and leadership in the concert field, thereby insuring artistic progress in the coming decade; and to increase significantly the Hall's cultural outreach throughout this country and abroad.

The building blocks are being put in place by Carnegie Hall's many friends who are determined that this beloved institution be properly supported. The immediate goal of the Fund is to raise $2.5 million by the end of May. This would be of enormous significance in establishing a base for the future.

Those individuals as well as private and public institutions who wish to participate actively in this effort are encouraged to respond as generously as possible at this time.

All contributors of $1,000, or more will be recognized as Founders of the Carnegie Hall National Endowment Fund. A permanent plaque within the Hall will honor individual memberships of $1,000 (Donor), $2,500 (Sponsor), $5,000 (Patron), and $10,000 (Benefactor). Corporations. Foundations and Governments will be recognized under separately designated categories.

Memberships are tax-deductible. Payments should be made to "The Carnegie Hall Society—Endowment Fund" and mailed to the Fund, c/o Carnegie Hall, 154 West 57 Street, New York, New York 10019.

What is one to say about the new Alan Jay Lerner and Leonard Bernstein musical "1600 Pennsylvanie Avenue," which opened at the Mark Hellinger Theater last night? Bring zack "Rex"! Possioly? Or if this is meant as e Bicentennial offeriog — aod it is, as the historically and topographically inclined will realize, about the White House — maybe we should wait for the Tricentennial.

The show is subtitled "A Musical Ahout the Problems of Housekeeping." One would idly have imegined that housekeeping was among the least of the musical's problems, for the book, the lyrical and even the music for Mr. and, even the music (for Mr. Bernstein's contribution is more distinguished), enjoyed infinitely higher priority.
It is a musical actualty about a building — one hopes it will not start a trend. One could imagine musicals about Stoocheoge or the Sistine Chapel. However, to an extent, the story of the White House does at least parallel the history of the nation, with its succession of Presidents and their First Ladies. (The second ladies are oever here mentioned the musical migot been been mor fun if they bad been! Yet it is dooe io the most tedious and simplistic way maginable

From George Washington to Teddy Roosevelt, 2 lot of history flows along the Potomac. How is one in give it thematic cooerence? Mr. Lerner, who has clearly spent too much time watch-ing the television series "Upstairs, Downstairs" (or from looking at the result, possi-bly, "Beacon Hill") decided hy the first night, been largely abandoned, odd vestiges of it remained. Then the idea of having the President and the First Lady, to-gether with the loyal — but modestly militant — Uncle Tom servant and his Thom-asine wife, all played by the same four actors lends much to the general air of confusion and tedium.

This quick runthrough of the first 125 years of Ameri-can history is bleak and patronizing. Bleak, because Mr. Lerner has, for totally typical example, lines such as Dolly Madison saving: "I Dolly Madison saying: must go and feed my parrot. his language is becoming scandalous, which is meant as humor, and patronizing such as when the blacks are told: "If someone runs off with our dream, the dream will be yours." It is as equally patronizing to women as tob lacks, and the American Indian and his genocide is not even mentioned, neither for that matter is the opening of the West, the in-dustrialization of the East, end, or at least only barely, the war in the South.

NEW DECOR

There are a few decent scenes-a dialogue between Julia Grant and Lucy Hayes (both of course played by the same singer) about vacating and acquiring the White House, or Andrew Johnson escaping the consequences of escaping the consequences of impeachment, and quite a lot of good, strong Bernstein music. The elegant vivacity of "The President Jefferson Sunday Luncheon Party March" or the ballad "I Love This Land," are typical of a score that does everything it posthat does everything it pos-sibly can do to bolster the crumhling fabric of that edi-

The scenery is described as "supervised" by Kert Luodell - an odd word "supervised," which I have never seen used in a program be-fore — and probably cost a great deal more than it looks. Because it looks cheap. The costumes (about which the same could be said) have needed two "supervisors," Whitney Bleusen and Dona Granata. Who were all these people supervising? Slavas, perhaps.

himself with the Beatles. Last night's performance, however, sounded tougher and more overtly rock-and-roll than the recorded ver-sions. The arrangements were often very similar, but the whole tone was harder-edged, and Mr. McCartney's music benefited from the difference. It has always been hard to judge Wings, which has been ty convention center Arena here with his first perfor-mance in this country to 10 years, Mr. McCartney estab-lished himself and his band, together in its current coo-figuration for only 18 months, from its records, since the studio offers so many ways to disguise imperfections. Last night's performance may have been the first American date, but it had been preceded by extensive touring in Britain, Europe and Australia and by a week of rehearsals

The result was ao impres-sively polished yet vital performance: Wings is a good band. Mr. McCartney plays bass and a good deal of piano, during which time Jimmy McCullouch or, more often, Denny Laine switches from guitar to bass. Both guitarists are excellent, and sing decently as well. And they manage to pull off the delicate feat of asserting their own personelities in en ensemble so clearly dominated by its leader. Joe Eoglish is a perfectly deceot drummer, and there are four first-rate wind and brass players with uousually tasteful arrange-ments to play.

Linda McCartney bas suf-fered through the criticism that inevitably befalls any strong Beetle wife. In Wings her main function (other than moral support for her hus-band and visual appeal) is to provide backup harmonies, which she does adeptly. She has no solo songs, and neodles away functionally but discreetly at the key-boards. But most of the seri-ous keyboard work is handled by Mr. McCartney or

The program—which Mr.

McCartney said later back-stage would likely remain fixed throughout the tour-consisted of 26 McCartney songs, one by Mr. McCullouch, one by Mr. Laine and a Paul Simon number, "Richand Cory." There were nine songs from the "Venus and Mars" album, five from "Band on the Run," four from the new "At the Speed of Sound," one each from the first solo aloum and "Red Rose Speedway," none from "Ram" end "Wild Life," two "Ram" end "Wild Life," two singles and, as the second and final encore, a rousing unrecorded rocker called "Soily." The five Beatles songs, which Mr. McCartaey later insisted had been "random choices," were "Lady Madonna," "Long and Winding Road," "I've Just Seen a Fece," "Bleckbird" and "Yesterday." Yesterday."

Mr. McCartney added. "I used to get much more nervous with the Beatles. I was younger, I guess. I love American audiences. They're ust great. The response to Live and Let Die'-it was ridiculous."
Mr. McCartney was clearly president of the National Association for Equal Opportunity in Higher Education, representing the presidents of the more than 100 predominantly black colleges.

Other problems addressed by the group at a recent first national conference in Washington included pressures for changes in Federal programs of financial aid that would shift emphasis from low-in-come students to the middle class, and what was called a scarcity of blacks with advanced academic training in specialty fields needed to up-date the school's academic

According to the 1960 Census, 4.1 percent of blacks 16 to 34 years old had completed four or more years of college, compared with 11.9 percent of whites, for a difference of nearly eight points. By 1974, the comparable figures were 8.1 percent for blacks and 2! percent for whites, widening the gap to almost 13 percentage

Elias Blake, president of the Institute for Services to Education a research-consultant organization, noted that such statistics often conveyed an impression of more progress for blacks than had actually been achieved.

"You could say the percen-tage of blacks completing college dnubled from 1960 to 1974, from 4 to 8 percent. But at the same time we're losing ground because the base was so low to begin with and because whiles jumped from 8 percent to

The institute has just re-leased preliminary data for 1975 indicating that enrollment at black colleges except for the 14 private twonificantly faster than the nalional rate. Administrators like Herman R. Branson, president of Pennsylvania's Lincoln University, pointed to this trend in disputing a widespread presumption that black students are abandoning the black colleges for white schools.

Enrollments on Rise The data show that be-tween 1974 and 1975, total enrollment at the 88 four-year black colleges increased hy 11.4 percent, almost doub-le the 6 percent rate for all four-year colleges. Dr. Blake, however, cau-further study of the patterns could be made.

now to develop a conflict, class and racial, between the needy student and the middle class." Dr. Lyons said. Proposals by Representative James O'Hara, chairman of the House Subcommittee on Post-Secondary Education, that would have eased eligibility requirements for middle-income families were to study them.

Efforts to place more attention on increasing the number of blacks going on for terminal degrees was another program advocated by the educators' association, which stated, in a proposal for greatly increased Federal Participants in the conferfinancing for black higher education, that blacks com-prised only 2 percent of the doctoral graduates io the Pupil and teacher perfor-mance is usually higher in schools with womeo princi-

The authors attributed the women's greater effectiveness to longer teaching ex-perience. More than twice the number of men as women became principals before the age of 36, and four times as many men were appointed to principalships within 10 years after they became teachers.

The faculty voted 72-65 in favor of a four-point scale, in which four is equivalent to an A and a one is barely passing, to provide greater differentiation for grading student work, a college spokesman said vesterday.

The new scale reinstates a mark for failing, or "no credil," at the South Hadley, Mass., college, Under the present ent system a failing grade technically does not exist, but a student who accumu-lates a specified number of "pass" marks is barred from Czechs Collect Coins PRAGUE (AP) - New 10heller and 20-heller pieces, equivalent to 1 and 2 cents, were put into circulation in Czechoslovakia in 1974, but though several millions were joining a hastening drift from | minted few seemed to find their way into circulation. A state bank official complained it had. become fashionable to buy a vase and drop in the coins until .

Martin Streamlines Yankees With Running, Daring Style

By LEONARD KOPPETT

Special to The New York Times ANAFIEIM, Calif., May 4-Even though the Yankees bave played only 15 games this season, and it has been only nine months since Billy Martin was named manager, a remarkable change in the club's oo-field - personality has been established.

Martin is the "runningest manager the team has had since the lively ball revolutionized baseball in 1920. The home run became the Yankee tradeouark in the days of Babe Ruth, and eveo though such titles as Murderers' Row and Bronx Bombers have not been truly applicable for almost a decade, the idea that Yankee success must rest oo batting power lingers.

As a player, Martin was part of that tradition. When he played on seven Yankee pennaot-winoing teams dur-ing the 1950's, even he bit more home runs than his slight build and right-handed stance (in old Yankee Stadium) would have led one to expect. And wheo he set a record by getting 12 hits io a World Series in 1953, he also broke a total-bases record held by Ruth.

Basically, his value was as a fine second haseman among several great hitters, but he swung his bat hard,

Bengals Sign Griffin

CINCINNATI, May 4 (UPI)-Archie Griffin of Ohio State, the only two-time winner of the Heisman Trophy as college football's top player, spurned a lucrative offer to play Canadian ball tonight and signed a multiyear cootract with the Cincinnati Bengals of the National Football League.

The 5-foot-8-inch, 189-pound running back was a first-round draft choice of the Bengals, but the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League tried to lure him away with big money and a longterm contract.

Reports of the Canadian offer ranged from $210,000 for three years to $840,000 for six years. Although the salary of Griffin's cootract with the Bengals was withheld, the team's assistant general manager, Mike Brown, said it was not a oo-cut contract. Griffin had been passed over by some N.F.L. teams because of his

Special to The New York Times DENVER, May 4-It took 27 telephone calls and $114, hut Rich Jooes of the New York Mets was ready to play tonight in tha second game of the American Basketball Association championships.

The power forward was influential in breaking up the inside play of the Denver Nuggets in the Nets' 120-118 victory in the opening game of the finals Friday night. However, Jones fell heavily on his left wrist trying to block a layup hy Ralph Simp-son in the third quarter.

X-rays showed no broken bone, but the wrist, severely sprained, has been paioful. Dr. Allan Levy, the team physician, decided Jones could play if his wrist were wrapped in a protective covering of e relatively new material called Orthoplast.

The problem for Dr. Levy and Fritz Mossmann, the trainer, was finding the material in Denver. They spent most of the afternoon yesterday calling surgical supply bouses, and on the 27th try found what was apparently Denver's only box of Orthoplast. It cost $114, eoough to make eight casts.

The material, a relatively bard plastic, softens in hot water and can be moulded to fit around the injured areas for protection. It is cut off after each game to pro-mote healing, theo replaced the next time to conform to the oew shape of the injured part caused by swelling or reduction in swelling.

Jones is a tough defensive player who makes liberal use of his forearms and elbows to supplement his 6 feet 8 inches and 225 pounds. Dr. Levy spent much of time today designing the protective cast so that Jones's fingers and forearm would be free, but the wrist protected.

"Going to go out there aod play it as tough as 1 can," said Jones while walting for the design to be made.

Both teams had light workouts this afternoon, shooting around and running through plays in slow motion. Coach Kevio Lougrery, participated to the Net's shooting contests and showed that the outside jumper that kept him in the tioo for 10 years was still

Flyers Win, Lead Series by 3-1

BOSTON, May 4-The bell began to toll for the Boston Bruins tonight as they lost their third game in a row to the Philadelphia Flyers after having won the opener of the four-of-seven-game Stanley Cup bockey semifinal series. The score was 4-2.

Boston lost three men in fierce infighting in the last two periods. Jean Ratelle, back at the end of the second period Bobby Schmautz the right wing who had led the club in shots, was taken to a hospital for X-rays of his left knee after the second period. their slick center, had to leave because of a kink in Wayne Cashman, fiery left wing, was removed after injuring his left knee at tha beginning of the final period.

The Flyers copied their of the New York Rangers, third-game script by rallying, who tallied 79, 77 and 75 in tying the contest and scoring the last three goals to win golng away. Their four goals upstaged a superlative performance by Terry O'Reilliy of Boston, who scored both his team's goals. Reggie Leach of Philadel-

As for Pop Warner, he insisted as long as he lived that Ernie was the greatest he ever coached. better even than a legend named Jim Thorpe, who had played for Pop at Carlisle.

"Ernie could do everything Thorpe could do," the old coach said, "and he tried harder."

On Broken Ankles

Nevers went into the game with both legs taped to the knees. After some plays, his teammates had to help him to his feet. Yet he carried tha ball 34 times for gains of 118 yards. He set up a field goal and put Stanford in position to score on a 7-yard pass play, and to this day Californians insist that be reached the end zone with a fourth-down plunge in the last period. However, when Ed Thorp, the referee, had peeled several layers of Notre Dame gristle off Ernie's back, he decided the ball was about a foot away from the goal line.

On defense Ernie intercepted a pass by Stuhldreher and was involved as a tackler in three-quarters of Notre Dame's running plays.

Layden scored three touchdowns, two of them on runs of 78 and 70 yards after intercepting passes Nevers intended for Ted Shipkey, the left end. The final score was 27-10 for Notre Dame, and that was about the only area where Stanford didn't dominate the statistics. Nevers and his colleagues led in gains from acrimmage, 298 yards to 179; on first downs, 17 to 7, and in completed passes,

After the game, Warner proposed that the rules be changed to award a point or two for each first down. "Good idea," Rockne said. "I understand that oext summer baseball games io the American League will be decided by men left oo bases."

The American League hasn't adopted the suggestion yet, but doo't bet against it. In a league of 10-man nines, oothing is impossible.

HEMPSTEAD, L.L. May 4— Candidates for Team America showed their talent toda; before Ken Furthy, coach of the Cosmos. While Furthy closely watched the cream of the country's soccer players in a scrimmage at Hofstra's AstroTurf stadium, several Cosmos players practiced nearby under his assistant, Julio Mazzei.

Pelé worked out under Mazzei, not with the candi-dates for Team America, which later this month will meet the national teams of Italy, Brazil and England, in that order, in the American Biceotennial Cup.

"There's so much soccer here," Pelé said before the workout. "Practice in the morning, practice in the afternoon and play at night." He had a broad smile to show that he was not complaining.

Afterward, over tomato soup, a small salad and a medium steak, Pelé said: "Ken asked me to stay .ith the Cosmos because of the Astro-Turf. No good for my ankie." Then he laughed and added. "Maybe Ken figures I am not good enough for Team America." Everybody else laughed, including Kyle Rote, among 13 Americans invited to try out for the team. The others

Furthy scheduled a scrimmare tomorrow morning. He will have another look at his players next week and also for three days before the game against Italy in Washington May 23.

"It's just a matter of time before we start playing as a team." said Moore, who has captained the national team of England, but will play against his country in the tournament. There are a lot of good players here."

Jolley Fills His Barn Here

By MICHAEL STRAUSS Bertram Firestone's Honest Pleasure, who as the odds-on favorite was beaten by Bold Forbes in last Saturday's Kentucky Derby, was an unexpected arrival at Belmon! Park late yesierday afternoon. He was accompanied Race on the cargo place and in the Tracks van by LeRoy Jolley, his trainer. It had been anticipated that the 3-year-old colt was going to be shipped directly from Louisville to Maryland for the Preakness. The second jewel in throughbred racing's Triple Crown will be held at Pimlico a week from Saturday. It was believed Jolley had decided to bring Honest Pleasure to Belmont in order to concentrate his outstanding horses in one stable. The alternative was to make intermittent tries to Maryland to look after the prized 3year-old colr who had nine straight races before the Honest Pleasure arrived at Kennedy International Airport with a shipment of 14 stablemates. It was one of the most valuable thorough-bred cargoes in the sport's history. Also aboard were Mrs. Firestone's Optimistic Gal, the easy winner of last Friday's $61.825 Kentucky Oaks, and John Creer's Foolish Pleasure, the 1975 Derby winner. The trio has combined earnings of $2,144,935. "Those three horses alone Honest Pleasure, Foolish Pleasure, and Optimistic Gal -must be worth somewhere between $12 and $15 million alone." said a horseman. Jolley left the barn shortly after seeing the horses had ben properly placed in their stalls. His assistant trainer, John Nazareth, who accompanied Jolley on the flight, said he expected that Honest Pleasure, Foolish Pleasure and Optimistic Cal would be galloped at Belmont this Jaycees: Gridiron to Gric the use of Palmer Stadium.

By MICHAEL KATZ The year the New York football Giants move to New Jersey, the New Jersey Junfor Chamber of Commerce is moving to Pennsylvania and auto racing

Since 1962 the Jaycees had sponsored an exhibition foot hall game at Princeton for charity involving the Giants and a team from across the Delaware until last year, the Philadelphia Eagles. The Jaycees made $2.4 million for charity during those years, but on last August's exhibition game between the Giants and the Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers they lost $16,000.

"It was time to get out," said Stephen Milazzo, executive director of the Jaycees, yesterday. "And we think we're getting in on the ground floor of something with tremendous growth potential."

The ground floor is on the asphair pavement of Pocono International Receway, where the Jaycee Grand Prix will be held this weekend.

The "grand prix" is the season opener for the Formula 5000 series, which has become this country's premier form of road racing, although it has yet to attract the kind of crowds that Indianapolistype cars and stock cars draw to Pocono.

Last year, attendance at race was about 10,000—the break-even point in terms of profit and loss.

Profits to Be Split

The agreement between the raceway and the Jaycees is to divide the profits on the race. "We're not going to get 100,000 peopie the first year." said Milazzo, "but we don't think 50,000 is out of the cuestioo in a couple of

With the average price of Pocono cickets $15, even a crown of 20,000 this weekend (practice begins Friday, there are two supporting races Saturday and the openers of the Formula 5000 and Trans-Am series Sunday) would mean $75,000 in profit for the Javcees.

And for auto racing, the Jaycee sponsorship could be just as important. We're always looking to bring new people into racing," said Dr. Joseph Mattioli, the track's president, "and this gives us an area of growth we never envisioned."

Each of the 8,700 Jaycee members was given three tickets for the races to seil. But Milazzo says he has no idea of how well his volunteer sales force is doing. 'A los of people are still asking for tickets to the football classic." he said.

The reason the Jaycees got out of football was eco-nomic. Last year, they had to pay the Giants and Steelers $100,000 each, plus $25,000 to Princeton University for

Apollos to Face 3 New Teams

The New York Apollos will face three of the new American Soccer League franchises this week, starting tonight with a game at Tacoma. The Apollos then will play at Sacramento oo Friday night and at Utah on Saturday. New York and New Jersey are tied for the lead in the East Division with 1-0 wonlost records.

Miss Phipps Wins Title SAO PAULD, Brazil, May 4 (Reuters)-Joan Phipps, a rider from Edmonton, Alberta, won the $1,000 first prize in the women's world jockey championships, that ended bere last night. Miss Phipps, 24-years old, finished the four-race series with 22 points. Marina Lez-cano, a 19-year-old Argentine, won last night's final race to finish runner-up in the series contested by 16 riders.

When the Jaycee Classic originated, the Eagles and Giants were two of the best teams in the league and for many people, shut out of tickets in New York and Philadelphia, Princeton was the only place to see them.

and for the last two years the classic lost money.

The Jayceas considered sponsoring other events before settling for the Pocono race. A soccer exhibition involving perhaps the New York Cosmos, a rock concert, York Cosmos, a rock concert, wrestling and the rodeo were suggested. A hockey exhibition between the New York Rangers and Philadelphis rivers was rejected, Milazzo said, "because there's no ice hockey rink in New Jersey large enough to hold it and the cost of renting the $ trum or the Garden was great."

The only major auto is track in New Jersey, he international Speedway passed over because it only 20,000 "and we looking for something could grow much bigger that," said Milazzo. So the Jersey Jay opted for a runoing game. His team stole 220 bases in 328 attempts last year. But it still finished last, and over the winter the Angels tried to add experienced power (Bonds and Bill Melton) eveo if it meant sacrificing speed. Martin, agreeing to the departure of Bonds, was willing to yield his biggest home-run bat for more speed. What the long-range result will be remains to be seeo. But it is a style of baseball, oatural to teams like the Dodgers and Cardinals, that has been rarely used by the Yankees (although Houk turned to it with some suc-cess from 1968 on). But perhaps necessity is the mother of intention.

Expert Looks at U.S. Soccer, And He Doesn't Like Brutality

By PAUL GARDNER

By PAUL GARDNER
Two weeks ago, more than a million New Yorkers watched the telecast of the New York Cosmos-Miami Toros soccer game. And they saw something that I—and, I am sure, the people who ruo the North American Soccer League — would rather they had not seen.

They saw Pelé running full speed past the ball and launching himself at the legs of a Miami defender. An ugly and dangerous foul, one for players are members of the league, players such as Pelé, George Best, Rodney Marsh, Ramoo Mifflin, Giorgio Chinaglia and Bohby Moore. Irooically, they are the ones creating the problem. For their arrival has given the league a dangerously unbalanced shape.

The highly skilled world-class players make up the top end of the league's skill spectrum. At the bottom end there are, alas, far too many players who are, to put it charitably, undertalected.

It is a volatile mixture of the best and, if not the worst, certainly the not-good-enough.

certainly the not-good-enough.
The danger, as I see it, is that the inferior players, feeling themselves outclassed, will resort to rough play. Forgive the orthodox euphemism; I mean that they will start kicking opponents rather than the ball.

of course, I am oot so nalve as to imagine that I have discovered anything oew bete. And that is one of the things that puzzles me most about the situation. I know about the situation. I know—as league officials know, and as the players and coaches and surely the refereea know—that there are players in the league who have the reputation of being kickers. And that there are teams that play what is described—again euphemistically—as a "physical" or an "aggressive" game. What they are doing is clearly illegal under soccar's rules. So why are they allowed to get away with it?

Those who love soccer and want to see it thrive in this country have often made the point that it is a sport in which there are few serious injuries. This is true when soccer is properly played. But when scantily padded players are given license to kick each other and to tackle violently, the risk of serious injury becomes much greater. Can we eocourage parents to send their children out to play that sort of game? There is clearly a Gresh-am's Law of Soccer; bad soc-cer will drive out good soccer. Violent play is a serious threat to the game itself. It has to be stopped.

This is where I think the N.A.S.L. is presented with a magnificent opportunity. Nothing less than the chance to become the world leader in the campaign to clean up soc-cer. Why shouldn't the N.A.-S.L. be known as the league where gifted players are pro-tected, where their skills are allowed to flourish? For players like Pelé and Best have to be protected, not because they are famous names, or because they cost their clubs a lot of money, but because they are trying to play soc-cer the way it should be

How to protect them? I believe that a substantial proportion of the trouble would be eliminated if referees would be much harsher in peoalizing the "tackle from

Institution-Sized Discounts For Individual Investors

Institutions are now getting great commission discounts from your broker. If you're not getting them too, there is something you can do about it. Do business at Source.

All we require is two things. You pick your own stocks and eventually do at least $250 worth of commission business with us.

If you can do that, you'll get institution-sized discounts of 30% to 75% off from previous fixed rates on your stock commissions and up to 35% off from previous CBOE rates on your option commissions.

You will get institutional quality service from us, too. Our full account services include cash, margin, option, short and C.O.D. accounts with each account insured for up to $300,000.

Plus, you will get a service even institutions don't get from your broker — a choice of either Third Market or Stock Exchange executions with Third Market executions confirmed immediately while you are on the telephone.

Alaska Weighing New Oil Taxes

BY ROBERT METZ

Alaska. which already taxes petroleum companies more heavily than most states, is considering several new oil taxes.

Charles T. Maxwell, energy analyst for Cyrus T. Lawrence Inc., says in an advisory report that the news of possible new Alaskan oil taxes has dismayed investors in sucii companies as Atlan-tic Richfield and Sohio.

He lists the following present taxes: GA severance or produc-tion tax averaging 8.3 per-cent for most substantial producers.

Gan ad valorem tax of about 2.5 percent on exploration and production and pipe-line transportation proper-percent on oil and gas re-serves in the ground, effective Jan. 1, 1976, for two years only and recoverable as a de-diction from future state payments.

He notes that in addition Alaska normally receives & duction and that there is a "relatively high" state income tax averaging 9.4 percent, applicable to all corporate earnings in Alaska.

"From the point of view of the oil industry, therefore, Alaska already levies the highest taxes of any state, and with the inclusion of royalty and state income tax, has the highest proportional 'take' of any state from total oil revenues." Mr. Maxwell

A recent proposal would, if adopted, increase the severance tax to 14.5 percent. Meanwhile, another proposal would replace the state in-come tax on oil and gas production with a net proceeds tax, nominally at the present 9.4 percent rate but with the elimination of deductions for "certain normal expenses." This. Mr. Maxwell argues. would set the stage for fu-ture increases in taxes on the petroleum industry without having to disturb the state tax rate for all other indus-still another bill would institute an "excess value surtax" on the net proceeds of any oil or gas sold for more than an "arbitrary price of $7 per barrel or equivalent."

This is another example of legislation aimed only at the petroleum industry. It totally ignores higher costs of production, costs of delays m obtaining permission to produce, risks in frontier areas, etc.

"If, in fact, all of the above were eventually passed (and we strongly doubt this) the effect would be to give the State of Alaska better than 50 percent of the net income from a big field such as Prud-hoe Bay."

All of this suggests that the once promising energy prospects for companies beavily involved in Alaska could be reduced to marginal or public utility profits, Mr.

Maxwell states.

However, be adds that m a recent visit he found the oil industry "effectively campaigning" to show the legislature how quickly the incoming tide of investment flows could be turned back under highly discriminatory tax policies.

He concludes that there will "undoubtedly" be a heavier tax burden for the oil companies active in Alaska but adds that the development of Prudhoe Bay and other areas will not be discovered. tax policies. couraged.

New Study on REIT's

Real estate investment trusts have fallen on hard times-just now hard is indicated by a new study. New Pian Realty Trust, itself a REIT, conducted the study, which covered 32 trusts that issued $1 million or more in stock in 1972. Non Plan found that shares of three of the REII's are no longer being traded, while shares of 27 are selling at an average of 60 percent below the price et which they were first offered to the public. Twenty-one have eliminated

New Plan made the study because it believes its own record is superior. New Plan's shares, first issued in 1972 at 135; now sell on the OTC market at 17.

The next best company by this measure, New Plan says, is General Growth Properties, whose stock was issued at 2214 in 1972 and is currently trading at about 1938.

We're changing our name so you'll know us better.

For more than half-a-century the name Weil-McLain has stood for the best cast iron boilers made in America.

But we have outgrown that name, and have proudly become Wylain.
Today, Wylain manufactures products for air conditioning and commercial refrigeration, heating, fluid systems, housing, air handling systems and Wylain still produces America's best cast iron boilers (through its Weil-McLain Hydronic Division), but our new name means a lot more.

Wylain. A name to get to know better.

Our NYSE Symbol is still WML

Report from Number One Wall Street

Jean deRochefort, Vice President International Correspondent Banking Division

Floating a fertilizer plant for Indonesia.

lean deRochefort, who supervises living's correspondent banking opera-tions in Asia and the Middle East, has built up relationships with many devel-oping countries. And he's anxious to enable them to expand their economies with investment ties that can originate with any company or country ready to do business.

Take Indonesia, which is currently dependent on costly imported utea. The irving participated in a worldwide syndicate to bring a shipborne fertilizer plant there to shore up Indonesias ability to meet its own fertilizer needs and even enable the country to export a little ammonia. It should bring Indonesia an annual foreign exchange benefit of $600

The floating plant has mobile efficiency. Its raw material is natural gas now being flared or wasted at offshore rigs. When the gas at one site is gone, the ship moves on to another of the country's ample offshore sources.

The Irving's relationships with Indonesia go back to pre-World War II days, and today we work closely with the central bank and all five of the state commercial banks, and we have many close ties with leading financial and industrial organizations," observes de Rochefore.

It is our unique international relationships built up over the yearsthe floating plant was built by Swiss and Belgian firms—that enable countries

Suganne Zirgo, Federal Funds Broker Bond and Money Market Division

Wednesdays are chaotic. Every day, Suzanne Zorgo brokers hundreds of millions in overnight Federal Funds. It's a demand-ing job that requires a headset instead of a regular telephone. But no day is ever as busy as Wednesday—settlement day.

From all over the country, money desks call her to buy or sell, or just to get a feel of the market. "It's a demanding and sensitive job," says Suzanne, "because you're constantly talking to professionals who know how to make their banks money work. You have to build and gain their confidence by the way you conduct the market."

And Suranne does. Her desk, which is part of the Irving's Bond and Money Market Division, makes the Irving the only bank in the U.S. that brokers Federal Funds. Which keeps Ms. Zorgo on the telephone for most of the day. Particularly on Wednesdays.

T. Carter Hagaman, Vice President Corporate Financial Counseling Department

A profitable dialogue. T. Carter Hagaman heads the Irving's Corporate Financial Counseling Department. With 15 full-time professionals, the department is aptly named.

"We work closely with clients on a con-tinuing individual and confidential basis. We're here to advise. To assist. To offer informed objectivity," says Hagaman.
The Irving's counseling covers two major areas:

First, there's finance—the aggrega-tion of corporate capital at reasonable rates. For one client, the dialogue may concern the advantages and drawbacks of equity. For another, the various alternatives in a debt financing. For still another, a review of dividend policy.

Second, there's capital management—the use of capital as a resource.

Here, we help dients answer such questions as: Can ROI performance standards work in mycompany? How can we best allocate limited investment capital? Should each division have the same goal. in return on investments?

More and more companies have come to realize that a dialogue with our Corporate Financial specialists is a profitable one. How can you start talking with the people who talk your language?

Hagaman answers: "We look at a relationship with the Irving as a prepaid retainer to call on our services and that's unique. For financial dialogue, call us."

The latest survey, to which 257 companies responded.

Coming away from the annual meeting of the Newspaper Advertising Bureau ooe has the feeling that there is no gathering of advertisars anywhere, anytime at which there isn't a representative of the bureau making a pitch for newspapers.

Seventeen members of its staff, including its president, Jack Kauffman, spoke yesterday morning during the session at the Waldorf-Astoria, and it added up to a litany of oresentations, workshops. seminars, brochures and guides completed or planoed.

No segment of the advertising industry seemed to be overlooked although the heavy stress was on retail, the source of $4.9 billion of the total of $8.4 billion of 1975 newspaper advertising rev-

"Our single most important customer group," said Leo Bogart, executive vica president, "and the one most coveted by our envious competitors. The broadcasters have gone aggressively efter our retail business—with sempresentations, new creative approaches, antinewspaper training workshops for their salesmen and a helluva lot of free newspaper publicity."

He noted that the oureau estimate that toe broadcast industry would spend $137 million this year to take business away from newspepers, while papers and the bureau together would spend only about $15 million for direct selling against broadcast.

One example of the bureau's own aggressive selling came up during the presentation. It concerned Sears' adtion. It concerned Sears' advertising in the New York market. The bureau developed "a total newspaper concept" using 18 papers in three states "with a reach far superior to what television can deliver"

can deliver. Although the bureau isn't prepared to take credit for it. Sears New York Group has reduced its TV spending 60 percent in the last four Another innovation of the burcau is its Universal Product Code Movement Program, which utilizes supermarket scanner information to chart advertising effec-tiveness. With it the oureau has found "that the average item in the typical store will increase sales by 510 percent the week it is featured in newspapers. It was Mr. Bogart who pointed out that changes in the population and higher education levels are going to what he was to refer later to as "our era of commercial overcommunication."

The flow of advertising information has increased faster than the population or its purchasiog power, he said, going on to note that "more and more of it comes to us unexpected, unwanted and out of context." out of context."

During all of this, he said, newspapers remain "a highly

About Real Estate

Penn Central Seeks Terms on Realty Leases

By ALAN S. OSER

Five years ago the trustees of the bankrupt Penn Central Transportation Company set out to sell the company's extensive mid-Manhattan realestate holdings, sometimes called the "Park Avenue" properties. They included both the land and buildings of the Commodore, Barclay, Biltmore and Roosevelt Hotels. They also included the land under many other buildings. Title to the buildings themselves usually is held by a long-term lessee, generally the major tenant.

As it happened, the trustees received only six "acceptable" bids, said John A. Koskinen, a principal of Victor Palmieri & Company, a real-estate company hased in Washington. Palmieri manages the real estate left to the company after the cooveyance of the rail system itself under the Railroad Reorganization Act

In 1973, two of the offers were rejected in hankruptcy court, and the four others were rejected in a Federal appeals court. Most of the offers had been from the major lessees, seeking to acquire outright the property they already occupied. At that time, the trustees were not free to attempt a "bulk" sale of all the proper-ties, Mr. Koskinen said. Now that the railroad itself is entirely divested, there could he such a sale. But in fact, the trustees are pursuing a more deliberate policy, which Mr. Koskinen sketched in recent interview at his Washington office

Of the 24 properties, one has been sold. It is th so-calleed New York General building at 230 Park Avenue, which holds the anchor position at the south end of the midtown stretch of Park Avenue, at 46th Street. The property was sold to the longterm lessee, the New York Bank for Savings. The terms called for a total price of $18 million if the full amount was paid off within two years. Just this month, the transfer was completed for $18 mil-

That leaves 23. Among them are the Waldorf-Actoria Hotel. Penn Central now owns the land and the Hilton Hotel Corporation bolds title to the hotel under a longterm lease with a renewal opcon that expires next year. Another property is the Union Carbide building, at 270 Park Avenue. There, Penn Central, which owns the land and long-term les-

Carbide is moving to Connecticut. Before the renewal option on its lease to 270 Park Avenue came due last year, Penn Central filed a petition with the bankruptcy court "disaffirming" lease on the ground that the rent increase provided uoder its terms was too low.

The cloud of that action hanging over the building would make it difficult for Carbide to sell the property. But negotiations between Carbide and Penn Central are under way, and Mr. Koshinen said he expected a resolution in two or three months.

In the Waldorf case as well. the trustees are trying to get better terms on the lease renewal. According o Mr. Kos-kinen, Penn Central is ready exercise its option to buy back the building rather than renew the lease if a satisfactory new rent agreement is not negotiated with Hilton, which operates the hotel. "Foreign investors then might take over our position and be the new landlord," said Mr. Koskinen. Foreign hotel operators have already expressed interest in running the Waldorf, he said. That could occur even if Penn Central lost on its disaffirmance action.

Gregory Dillon, Hilton's senior vice president for corporate property, reached in San Francisco, said, bowever, that Hilton intended to continue to operate the Waldorf. Detailed negotiations of renewal terms have apparently yet to begin.

The "most difficult"

property in Penn Central's midtown galaxy is the Commodore Hotel. It is a large and inefficient plant with a layout that does not lend itself to an apartment conver-sion, said Mr. Koskinen. The hotel lost $1.25 million last year, and its unpaid taxes al-ready stand at $10 million.

Demolition would cost about $7 million.

Interestingly, the 81,000 square feet of land bear a lower assessed valuation than the 57,000 square feet under the Commodore. The figures are $10.4 million at the Waldorf and $11.7 million at the Commodore.

The developer, Donald Trump, is trying to wrest long-term tax abatement from the city as part of a deal in bring the Hyatt Hotel organization to the city to operate a totally reconstructed botel on the site. "If not the Hyatt deal, there is no deal to be done," said Mr. Koskinen. Mr. Trump, he said, is the only developer in three years who expressed interest in the Commodore.

But not all is bleak with Penn Central's hotels in the city. The company is spending $4.5-million this year alone in renovations at the three other hotels it operates -the Barclay, Roosevelt and Biltmore, said Mr. Koskinen. Occupancy is up—to 71 per-cent in March 1976, against 59 percent in March of last year. The figures are in line with a general upturn in the

"By the end of this year we will have refurbished three-quarters of the rooms," said Mr. Koskinen, "To keep ahead of rising costs, you've got to keep improving the hotels. We're beginning to see the results."

child, District 4 decided to schools, some of which was

There was widespread op-

Dr. Irving Berchuck of the Bureau of Educational Facilitles, Planning and Design ex-plained yesterday that 1.S. 29 was to have been a pilot for intermediate throughout the city.

The intermediate schools, eocompassing the fifth to eighth grades, were started in the mid-1960's with onethird more than normal resources. They drew enroll-ments from a broader geographic area than elementary schools, thus increasing the possibility of hetter racial balance.

I.S. 29, because of its location, among luxury apartments and private houses be-tween Park Avenue and Central Park, and only two blocks from 96th Street, the border of a different, low-in-come black and Hispanic area to the north, was believed to be an ideal example of the program. Unfortunately, hopes for integration never material-ized," Dr. Berchuck said. Very few children from the immediate neighborhood attended the school, he said. Decentralization of schools, which came into existence a year before I.S. 29 opened, and revision of school-dis-trict boundaries, contributed to the school's failure, in Dr.

The northern boundary of District 2 was moved from 103th Street to 95th Street. This meant that practically all of the students attending the District 2 school actually lived in District 4. Since per-

Agnew: 'Never Close' to Nixon

Making the rounds to publicize his new book, Spiro T. Agnew said oo a television show to be seen May 31 that his relationship with Richard M. Nixon "was never close." But Frank Sinatra, the former Vice Presideot said, "has beeo tremendously suppor-tive" and bas cent him "a substantial amount of money" since Mr. Agnew resigned after pleading no contest to a felony charge. Asked on the Mike Douglas Show if it tortured him to have forfeited his chance to be President, he said, "Il did for quite a while. I was full of self pity. But I got over it. I think it was my destiny not to be President." Noting that he now felt "very confident" of himself, Mr. Agnew said, "I look at myself as an average American with faults and strengths."

In Ruleville, Ala., Fannie Lou Hamer was bome from the bospital yesterday after surgery for breast cancer April 27. The 56-year-old civil rights activist, who began in 1962 as a voter-registration organizer, is a board member of the Ruleville day-care center. Her busband, Perry, works with the Sunflower County Head Start program. Mrs. Hamer, founder of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party that challenged the state's regular delegation at the 1964 convention, said in a telephooe interview that sha was "committed" to Sargent Shriver while be was in the Presidential race. The long-expected resigna-tion of Ruth Farkas as Amhassador to Luxembourg has heen accepted, President Ford announced yesterday. Mrs. Farkes is the wife of the founder and honorary chairman of Alexander's department store here, George Farkas. She was appointed in 1973 after docating $300,-000 to the Richard M. Nixon re-election campaign. Predictions concerning her re-placement center oo Rosemary Ginn, Republican National Committeewoman from Missouri since 1960.

The Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church holds their daughter in slavery, a Vermoot couple have charged in a $1.8-million damage suit. Eric and Elizabeth Schuppin, in a suit filed in Federal Court in Burling-ton Monday, say their 19-year-old daughter, Tamara, is being held in "compulsory service to others," with no freedom of action, since she was "enticed" from the University of Vermont io January 1975. A basic premise of the suit is that the Unificatioo Church is not a religious group, as defined by the Con-stitution, but "e commercial enterprise" that has violated Federal labor laws by not paying Miss Schuppin for work done. Last fall she returned voluntarily to the church after she was the object of an unsuccessful "rescue" abduction in Connecticut, for which Mr. Schuppin, a lawyer, acknowledged responsi-bility. The couple say they have spent "tens of thousands" of dollars and "mortgaged our retirement away in fighting the Mooo group.

Mr. Holmes's original check for $100 million eventually adds more than $600 million to the total of bank deposits in the natioo, the nation's money supply. And that money, obviously, can be and is spent. Sometimes more spending is desirable to bring forth production and add to jobs, but by no means always.

The more money there is to circulation, the easier it is for sellers to raise prices, whether to cover higher wages and other costs or to increase profits, because cus-tomers around the nation have more to spend. When prices go up all over, this is inflation. But it is impossible to know precisely just bow much money is enough or how much is too much at any given time. But there is gan breaking in the news. In Tucson, Ariz., Tom Mil-ler was writing a book on the same aubject. Mr. DeCola seys he got in touch with Mr. Miller end read a long essay of his that eppeared in a recent edition of Rolling Stone magazine. Mr. De-Cola was especially interested in a figure named Joho Dane, who was now working with white farmers in Rhodesia.

CBS News reached Mr. Dane, who said he had a tape recording of his conversation with the J.D.L. member. Mr. Dane agreed to go to Mexico for an Interview, a)) expenses paid by CBS News. The network "established to our own satisfaction, at leest, that he is whet he says he is, a card-carrying member of the international mercenary community," Mr. Rather explained to the television audience. The television production itself, though, as-sumed some curious aspects. Intentionally or not, the turbingly glamorized, Ploced in the swank setting of a hotel end poolside leisure, he was allowed to rambla on easily with cool arrogance. Seen in target practice, he was complimented by Mr. Rather ("not bad shooting"). Mentioning a large sum of money, he received an off-camera whistle of seeming admiration. Here was an admitted killer and terrorist being treated as if he were representing the local Chamber of Commerce.

The J.D.L. member, oo tha other band, was approached and handled quite differently. It was epparent that he did not know that he would be confronted on camera with Mr. Dane's tape recording. Reached in Los Angeles yesterday, Irv Rubin, West Coast coordinator for the Jewish Defense League, confirmed that "60 Minutes" had "never once" mentioned John Dane or the $250,000 issue before interviewing him.

Mr. Rubin says he was told merely that "60 Mioutes" was interested in the general activities of the J.D.L. He says he was interviewed for about a half-hour on camera before the hour oo camera hefore the tepe husiness was mentioned. Mr. Rubin admits meeting with Mr. Dane at least twice, but insists that Mr. Dane ap-proached him, not the other wey around. Mr. Rubin says ha thought the meetings a matter of curiosity. On the program he described them as "fantasizing." In eoy case, he saya, the possibility of the J.D.L.'s having $250,000 is ludicrous. And, furthermore, he says the J.D.L. would oot go to a gentile mercenary for e joh that would mean "honor for any Jewish fighter."

In fact, whatever the ex-tent and nature of the contocts between Mr. Dane and Mr. Ruhin, nothing came of the elleged negotiations. Mr. Dane says that they collepsed because he was arrested and spent five months in a United States jail for running guns to Mexico. Mr. Rubin says that it is because he was never aerious in the first place and thet "I would be willing to take a polygraph test on anything I said."

Mr. DeCola, the producer, says the point of the segment was not that anything did happen but that "my God, that could have happened." We live in an age of assas-sins, be adds, in which history can be determined not by governments, but by militant groups and lone assas-

That point, of course, is valid. But it was partly lost, or at least dulled, in the seeming anxiety of "60 Minutes" to construct production values for a "hot" story. When the story can be obtained by treating one major participant as something of a cool celebrity and treating the other in a manner that verges on unfair entrapment, the process of television journalism demands careful re-examination.

Poison-to-poison with Truman Capote.

This year's Hemingway.

It's Mariel, Margaux's sis in life and Lipstick. She's the find of this R-rated rape ripoff, but the 4'17" outdoors-girl would rather be a marine biologist than an action.

Dr. Robin Goodfellow is a medical breakthrough...the first female chief surgical resident at a Boston hospital. She's a real operator...even cuts and sews for fun.

Like this needlepoint.

The Tiny Terror's new book—say its Jetset subjects—was written with a typewriter dipped in poison. Answered Prayers lets all kinds of Beautiful People skeletons out of the closet. Quoth Capote: "Really rich people are the most pathetic, so frightened, so insular." Come with People on a person-to-person visit.

Speed King and Queen. Sheila Young skated to 3 medals at the Winter Games and was world cycling champ. Jim Ochowicz is pedaling for the Summer Games. Their shared pad is more locker room than love nest.

Vivian Reed boils in Bubbling Brown Sugar...knocked 'em dead on the TV Tony Awards with her "Sweet Georgia Brown." She studied opera on a Juilliard scholarship...went on to singing waitress and discovery on the stage of the Apollo Theater.

Gabe Kaplan, the "up your nose with a hose" man. As "Kotter" in the ABC sitcom smash, he's very together. But the 30-year-old workaholic confesses that "I'm inhibited and shy...I'm only me when I'm performing."

Frederick of Hollywood, the king of X-rated flimsies, here offers proof he discovered the "Baby Wrap" before Halston. He's made millions fooling mother nature.

Cal Worthington is the world's biggest car dealer and he got that way with crazy TV stunts. He stands on his head, wingwalks upside down, wrestles grizzlies, rides hippos...

Where's the fastest action in town? Right here in the populous pages of People.

Rick Monday, instant hero. The Cubs' center fielder spotted two fans about to burn the flag ... sprinted to save Old Glory...then got three hits against the Dodgers. Maybe they should name a day for him. How about right after Sunday?

People's happening...in every way a magazine can happen. Its editorial impact keeps growing issue after issue. If you're one of the talk-about people, it's definitely the place to be.

It's happening on the newsstands and supermarket reclaims.

It's happening on the newsstands and supermarket racks, too. On July 19, our rate base makes another 200,000 great leap forward...to 1,800,000.

That's going to mean 11,088,000 adult readers*—a whopping lot for a magazine that's just a little more than two years old.

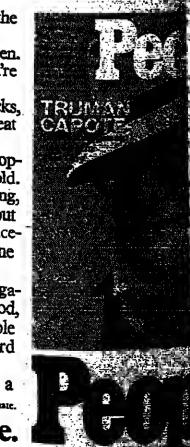

And look who those millions are. They're the young, prospering, educated, urban men and women who are out front in everything. They're the new-idea people...the pacesetters. They love People because it's now. It's the magazine of the mid-70's.

No wonder People's the biggest new happening in magazine advertising. It's an ideal setting for cars, cosmetics, food, appliances, liquor, travel, tobacco and all kinds of people products. And with the low out-of-pocket cost, you can afford the kind of frequency that really makes things happen.

Add some sparkle to your advertising picture...with a campaign in the new media option.

Publisher's estimate.

Suddenly, it's the place to be.
